LBJ Defends Action in Face Of Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told what he called the concerned, committed younger generation today he believes in debate on the nation's policies in time of danger, but said he must proceed on the course he believes is right, regardless of criticism.

The President hit his central theme in a commencement address to the graduating class at the National Cathedral School for Girls. His daughter, Luci, 17, was one of the graduates at the private school.

Johnson told young Americans to use their talents to help in the struggle of the world's poor to create a better life. He said this is a moral commitment.

But mainly the President talked of something to which he said he has given much thought.

He said that he knows the large majority of Americans support the effort everywhere to stop aggression but he also knows discussion is one of the great strengths of American democracy.

The appearance at the commencement was a repeat performance for Johnson. He addressed the earlier class in which his elder daughter Lynda, now 21, was graduated.

Again, as he has on several occasions recently, Johnson was reflecting his awareness of arguments and demonstrations on and off campuses, mainly over the nation's course in foreign affairs.

But he made it abundantly evident that he intends to hold unwaveringly to his policies. Johnson referred to Henry Clay's remark that he would rather be right than president and added a bit plaintively:

"Well, I must try to be both. I must try as best I can, and with whatever help God chooses to give me, to seek the right course, not only for myself but for a nation."

"And as president I must act — often swiftly and decisively — according to that judgment. So we will proceed with the course we are on — glad of the overwhelming support of the American people — always open to criticism and the flow of ideas but proceeding as we believe we must however the transient winds of opinion blow."

"This, I believe, is what the American people expect of their president."

"That is what they shall receive from me."

The proud father and commencement orator told the graduates they were all young and beautiful at a wonderful moment.

"And it is nice of you," the President said, "to let a much older and rather solemn man talk to you about his problems. I hope you know how it lifts my heart to see you, and to know a little of what I do may possibly enrich your lives."

Luci's class, 59 strong, had met the President previously. He made his home — the White House — available for the senior prom in April.

Two Americans Dead in Ambush

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Army advisers were reported killed today and a third wounded in a Viet Cong ambush near Pleiku, 220 miles northeast of Saigon.

The toll of American dead in combat in Viet Nam rose to 395 since December 1961. Two other Americans were killed over the weekend in the heavy fighting in Quang Ngai in which an estimated 600 Viet Cong and more than 500 South Vietnamese troops were casualties.

At least six Americans were wounded in scattered ground and air actions during the past two days, U.S. military spokesmen said.

U.S. Navy planes hit again at targets in North Viet Nam and one F4 Crusader was shot down by anti-aircraft fire. The pilot ejected over the sea, a spokesman said, and was picked up in good condition about 10 minutes later by a rescue plane.

Forty-eight U.S. Air Force planes hit the Ho An ammunition depot area, 45 miles south of Hanoi, for the third consecutive day Tuesday. They dropped 50 tons of 750-pound bombs and pilots reported nine buildings destroyed.

The Navy pilots said they dropped two tons of bombs on a railroad yard at Vinh, about 160 miles south of Hanoi, but were unable to assess the damage. They said they caused moderate damage to three boxcars near Quang Phong, about 125 miles south of Hanoi, and bombed Route 15 just north of Vinh, making the road impassable at that point.

American officials said Vietnamese army sources reported the Viet Cong ambushed a convoy en route from Pleiku to relieve a district headquarters under attack at Le Thanh. Five Americans were reported with the convoy.

Air support was sent to the scene and troops were rushed there by helicopter. Late reports indicated government forces were in control of the ambush site.

One of the U.S. dead in the Quang Ngai fighting, 65 miles southeast of the big Da Nang air base, was identified as Capt. Christopher J. O'Sullivan, 41, of Astoria, Queens, N.Y. The other was a Marine sergeant.

A military spokesman announced that Marine Lance Cpl. Roy Murphy of Moultrie, Ga., had died of wounds received May 28 near Chu Lai.

The fighting near the provincial capital of Quang Ngai tapered off Monday but Viet Cong terrorists exploded four bombs Monday night in a Vietnamese army compound in downtown Quang Ngai.

The blasts set fire to a police station but caused only one casualty. The raiders apparently were trying to kill the commander of the Vietnamese army's 2nd Division and other high-ranking officers in the compound.

Vietnamese military sources said they believed the Viet Cong had a division of men in the general area of Quang Ngai Province. U.S. military officials said the number probably was from one to two regiments.

The heaviest casualties in the Quang Ngai area were suffered by the 39th Vietnamese ranger battalion and the 3rd Vietnamese marine battalion. The marine unit had at least 20 dead and 60 wounded.

OAS Hopes to Extend Lines In Dominicans

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Organization of American States planned more negotiations with the Dominican junta today in an effort to extend the international security zone around the National Palace a block from rebel lines.

The junta president, Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, declared that his regime would never let the OAS take control of the battered former seat of government now held by about 350 junta troops.

"Under no circumstances will the OAS or any other foreign element be permitted to take over the National Palace," Imbert told a reporter. "Only junta representatives and junta forces will be allowed in the palace and adjoining grounds."

Col. Francisco Caamaño Deno, chief of the rebel force, told a news conference he had agreed to extend the security zone boundaries to take in the three-story structure occupied briefly and sacked by insurgent troops when the civil war erupted in April.

Latin American soldiers in the Inter-American Force could patrol the security zone line around the palace, he said. But he demanded that only a token force of junta troops be allowed to remain inside.

The rebels believe this would prevent the junta from using the palace as a base for an assault on the insurgent stronghold in downtown Santo Domingo.

Extension of the zone to include the palace grounds and an adjoining street was discussed for more than two hours Monday by Gen. Telmo Vargas, military adviser to OAS Secretary-General Jose A. Mora, and the military chiefs of the junta regime.

High Court Rulings Stress Redistricting

Stay Refused New York in Key Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court in a series of legislative apportionment cases stuck firmly today to the one-man-one-vote rule it adopted last year but prodded state authorities and lower courts to work out the process for themselves.

The high court:

1. Declined to interfere with the order of a three-judge court for a special election of the New York Legislature next fall under a redistricting plan adopted by a lame duck, Republican-dominated legislature. The terms of those elected are to run for only one year while further reapportionment activity goes on.

2. Gave jurisdiction to the Illinois Supreme Court to supervise that state's reapportionment proceedings, holding that a three-judge federal court in Chicago should not have stepped in. The ruling, however, gave the lower federal court leeway to step in again if a valid representation system is not worked out in timely fashion.

3. Affirmed without detailed comment an order from another three-judge court for reapportionment of California's Senate by July 1.

4. Decided not to intervene in an Idaho reapportionment case, ruling that the matter is now in position for action by a three-judge U.S. District Court on the validity of a redistricting system worked out by a special session of the legislature last March.

The high court's most specific statement of its position came in the unsigned order in the Illinois case.

Holding that the lower federal court should have stayed its hand, the Supreme Court said:

"The power of the judiciary of a state to require valid reapportionment or to formulate a valid redistricting plan has not only been recognized by this court, but appropriate action by the states in such cases has been specifically encouraged."

The case is remanded with directions that the District Court enter an order fixing a reasonable time within which the appropriate agencies within the State of Illinois, including its Supreme Court, may validly redistrict the Illinois State Senate; provided that the same be accomplished within ample time to permit such plan to be utilized in the 1966 election of the members of the State Senate, in accordance with the provisions of the Illinois election laws."

Memorial Day Road Deaths Set Record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic deaths for a three-day Memorial Day holiday have pushed to a record high for the second year in a row and the National Safety Council said the blame rests "largely on incompetent and irresponsible driving."

"More and more must be done to improve the nation's driving skills," said Howard Pyle, council president.

Pyle said reports on highway traffic accidents throughout the weekend showed that mistakes in driving judgment posed the major problem.

He said the record bears out the findings in a recent nationwide drivers test in which a very high percentage of the participants failed to qualify as safe drivers.

Several multiple-death accidents helped swell the national total to 450 — for the period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to Monday midnight.

The old record of 431 traffic fatalities was set in 1964.

Three spectacular auto smashups in the areas of Necdies, Lone Pine and San Jose, Calif., snuffed out 16 lives.

A head-on collision on a desert highway near Needles, Saturday killed six and left an 11-year-old girl the only survivor.

An almost identical smashup in the High Sierra foothills Sunday near Lone Pine took five lives, leaving an 8-year-old girl as survivor.

Three men and two women died Saturday in a collision on a freeway north of San Jose.

For comparative purposes, The Associated Press made a survey of highway fatalities for the three-day non-holiday weekend period from 6 p.m. Friday, May 14, to midnight Monday, May 17. The death toll during the period was 387.

The lowest postwar traffic death toll for any three-day observance of Memorial Day was 204 in 1948. The record high for any three-day holiday period was 609 during the 1955 Christmas season.

During this year's Memorial Day holiday period, 35 persons lost their lives in boating accidents and 87 drowned.

Wisconsin Has 7 Memorial Holiday Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin counted seven traffic deaths in the long Memorial Day weekend and added another a few hours after the period ended at midnight. The victims included a district commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, killed when a station wagon carrying 10 persons rolled down a 160-foot embankment.

The state's year — long toll reached 331 today compared with 385 a year ago. Loss of life in the 78-hour holiday span remained near levels for a normal weekend driving period and well below the record 20 Wisconsin victims listed for the 1954 Memorial Day weekend. Ten persons were killed over the same period last year.

Robert Hempton of Glen Haven was killed at 2:30 a.m. today when his car missed a curve on a gravel road, clipped the end of a bridge railing and landed upside down in the Big Platte River. The accident occurred four and one-half miles east of Lancaster in Grant County. Hempton's neck was broken.

Y. F. W. District Commander Francis Michael Garfield, 42, Watertown, was killed Monday as a station wagon carrying 10 persons home from Memorial Day ceremonies plunged over an embankment along the Highway 16 bypass at the north edge of Watertown.

Six persons were hospitalized and three others released after treatment. Police Lt. Gordon O'Malley quoted the driver, Mrs. Joyce Nielsen, 39, Watertown, as saying the vehicle began to sway and then veered out of control on a curve.

It knifed through a guard rail and rolled down the steep incline, throwing many of the occupants out.

Garfield and others in the group had participated in a Memorial Day parade earlier in the day and were returning from a V.F.W. picnic at Richwood in Dodge County north of Watertown. Garfield was a welder for a utility.

Two other persons were killed Sunday, three Saturday and one Friday night.

Daniel Travis, 21, Merrill, died in a hospital Monday of injuries suffered last Tuesday night when he was found under a car after it had been driven into Merrill from a tavern two miles away.

Merrill police said Monday they were still investigating the accident.

Six Killed in State Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Six persons were killed in the holiday weekend traffic rush in Minnesota, raising the state's toll for the year to 226, compared with 302 a year ago today.

The victims, all killed in Sunday accidents, were: Scott James Rohr, 5, rural Wadena; Craig L. Johnson, 18, and Greg C. Johnson, 17, both of Kasson; Larry Purb, 21, Casselton, N.D.;

Mrs. Joseph Trobec, 49, St. Stephen, and Mary Harrison 16, Little Falls.

Homeward-bound residents were harassed Monday by heavy rain and hail in eastern Minnesota, and by numerous minor traffic accidents.

A series of accidents created a massive traffic snarl along a 10-mile stretch of U.S. 10 between Little Falls and Royalton late Monday.

Two lanes of the four-lane divided highway had been shut down to traffic previously, and authorities worked speedily to remove wrecked cars from the highway as bumper-to-bumper traffic backed up even beyond the 10-mile stretch.

Test of Full Crew Railroad Law Ordered

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court ordered a trial today to test the constitutionality of the state's full railroad crew law.

The high tribunal upheld a Dane County court decision by Circuit Judge Richard W. Bardwell in favor of the Chicago and North Western Railway and seven other railroads operating in the state.

Wisconsin's full crew law requires that a fireman be part of crews in over the road freight and in yard service.

The railroads argued that the statute bears "no reasonable relationship to the safety of the respondents' employees."

DEAR ABBY:

Pay Up Now— And Promptly

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I cheated a little on my income tax and I haven't been able to sleep nights. What should I do?
CHARLIE

DEAR CHARLIE: Send the Department of Internal Revenue a check for $100. And if you still can't sleep nights, send them the balance.

DEAR ABBY: My sister asked me to write this to you. I just gave her a few facts of life. She fell into the "we-are-going-to-get-married-anyway - so why wait?" trap. I used to use the same line myself, but never on a "nice" girl. I told my sister that when a guy can get a girl without marrying her, he loses respect for her, and he certainly doesn't want a wife he can't respect. After a guy gets to a girl, this is what she represents to him, and every time he sees her, that's all he thinks of. When I saw what was taking place with my sister, I gave her the male point of view. She's a smart girl so she broke off with the bum. She had a few bad months, but now she's going with a decent guy and is doing a good job of building her self-respect. If girls would only remember they aren't married until after the ceremony, and that lots can happen before that!

ABBY

I can forgive a girl for making one mistake when she is young. But if she repeats it, it's HER fault because she should know better. So, Abby, please print this for young girls who don't have brothers to tell them what I just told my sister.
BIG BROTHER

DEAR ABBY: I need your advice on how to handle my neighbor. She is constantly coming over here and crying on my shoulder. She tells me stories about how unfair her husband is and she also keeps haphing on all her aches and pains. Abby, I am not a well woman myself and I can't take much more of her. Sometimes she will get me on the telephone and talk for hours. I'm afraid if I tell her off she'll talk about me to the whole neighborhood. I feel very sorry for her, but this has gone too far. What should I do?
FED UP

DEAR FED: If the poor woman is mentally ill and needs someone to talk to, it would be cruel to "tell her off." But if she's just a gabby busybody with a lot of time on her hands, she should be discouraged by consistent rebuffs. When she phones, tell her you are busy and can't talk to her. And when she appears at the door, tell her you have much to do and are unable to visit. It may seem unkind, but unless you want to make a career out of being this neighbor's wailing wall, you'd better heed the advice.

DEAR ABBY: I've always been taught never to use anybody else's comb or brush and not to let anyone use mine. We have even been told this in health class at school. But some girls still ask to use my comb. Some of the kids have dandruff and don't always keep their hair clean. I don't know how to say no without hurting people's feelings and giving them the idea that I am "stuck-up." What should I do? Please print this as it might help others with the same problem.
UNWILLING COMB-LENDER

DEAR UNWILLING: Go to the dime store and buy a comb. Keep yours neatly tucked away for your personal use and when a borrower asks for your comb, give her the loaner.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad you didn't give much comfort to the person who asked you what you thought of grown men ending a business conversation on the telephone with "bye bye."

If you were to spend much time around the White House, you'd hear President Johnson terminate almost every conversation that way.
NOT GUESSING

Man's Foot Caught on Train Coupling

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP) — "It was a ghastly experience," said Joseph Martin of his forced five-hour rail ride from Erie, Pa., to Lackawanna after his foot became trapped in a freight-car coupling.

The 37-year-old construction worker suffered a crushed right foot in the Sunday episode. He was reported in fair condition at a hospital here.

Martin said he was taking a short cut to his auto in an Erie freight yard. His foot caught as he climbed over the coupling between two freight cars.

Before Martin could get help, the train started moving, the coupling tightened and it was 2½ hours before he could free his right foot.

He clung to a railroad-car ladder for the last leg of the 100-mile journey.

Farm Mishap Kills Ortonville Man

ORTONVILLE, Minn. (AP) — Oscar Smedberg, 58, died in a hospital here Monday night of injuries suffered in a farm accident earlier in the day.

Smedberg, a bachelor, was injured while working on a power takeoff in a feed grinding operation. He was a hired hand on the Everard Berdan farm about six miles east of here.

New Law Delaying West Fifth Project

A little-noted bill, passed by the legislature in the session's last days, may have far-reaching effects on city and county highway construction.

One effect of the turnback bill, as it is called, may be the delay of reconstruction work now planned for the West 5th Street from Junction Street to the city limit. The project has been planned jointly by the city and county. Estimates place the county's contribution at $70,000 and the city's at $57,000 for the segment of former Highway 61 which is now a county-state aid road.

THE REASON for possible delay, say county and city engineers, is that the new bill will make more state aid money available for projects such as this. Its effective date is July 1, 1965, but drafting rules for allocation of the funds it sets up may take several months, engineers believe.

At present, about 60 percent of the county's share of the 5th Street work would come from state aids and the balance from its road and bridge fund. The city plans to rely entirely on state aid funds for its contribution.

THE NEW LAW sets up special funds for use by counties and cities of more than 5,000 population in repair and restoration of former state highways which have been turned back to city or county control.

Under its provisions, 5 percent of the net highway user tax distribution fund is set aside. This is to be apportioned 70 percent to the trunk highway fund, 21 percent to a county turnback account and nine percent to a municipal turnback account. The accounts are created in the state treasury by the new law.

The impact, both on Winona County and the city, is expected to be considerable. Both have extensive reaches of former state highway now turned back to local control. Within the city, former Highway 61 extends west on Sarnia Street from Main Street, along part of Gilmore Avenue, turns into Junction Street, then follows West 5th Street to the Goodview line. Though a city street, it is designated a county-state aid highway.

APPROXIMATELY 2.8 miles long, the segment is maintained by the city street department, which bills the county highway department for the work. Construction on the segment is financed jointly by city and county. The portion extending from the Goodview-Winona line to new Highway 61 is maintained solely by the county, as is the segment between St. Mary's Cemetery and Homer.

If the West 5th Street improvement is delayed—and both city and county engineers agree it should be—the project may conceivably be enlarged to include the Gilmore-Sarnia portions and perhaps the Goodview reaches. All this, naturally, depends on how much money will become available by next year. At present, engineers are unable to estimate this amount since the commissioner of highways, charged with administration, still must lay down the final rules for allotment.

COUNTY ENGINEER Gordon Fay sees the new law as virtually the salvation of the county's road and bridge funds. When Interstate 90 crosses the county, he said, about 45 miles of turnback state highways and new service roads will have been added to the county system. Service roads paralleling the interstate route will be built concurrently by the state and then turned over to the county for maintenance thereafter.

Winona, too, will shortly find state highway mileage added to its street system. The portion of Gilmore Avenue which is now Highway 14 will be turned back when a new shortcut is built by the state, connecting the St. Mary's College corner with Highway 61 at Pelzer Street.

A state highway department origins and destinations survey, set for this summer, will help determine the permanent through-city routing of Highway 43. This determination too, would mean more turnback mileage if present routings are changed.

Recommendations of engineers for delay probably will be made this month to the City Council and County Board of Commissioners. These boards will be forced to decide quickly since the construction season already is well advanced.

One Weekend Crash; 2 Today

Police reported two traffic accidents today, after recording only one in Winona during the Memorial Day "weekend" period.

A collision today at 8:55 a.m. at 5th and Johnson streets between a car and a delivery van caused $350 damage to the vehicles and a minor injury to one of the drivers.

KENNETH O. Dickson, 19, 477 W. Mill St., was driving north on Johnson Street when he stopped for the sign at 5th Street and proceeded into the intersection.

The Dickson car collided with a delivery van driven west on 5th Street by Gene H. Ankrum, 39, Winona Rd. 1. Ankrum received a scalp cut which required nine stitches to close.

Damage was $250 to the right front and rear of the Dickson car and $100 to the left front of the van. Patrolman Herbert R. Kanthack investigated.

PATROLMAN Kanthack also reported a Friday accident; however, the accident report has not yet been completed.

Mrs. Ernest G. Gemes, 22, 451 1/2 E. Broadway, was driving north on Vine Street and an unidentified second driver was moving east on 5th Street when the collision occurred.

Damage was $150 to the front of the Gemes car. Daniel Gemes, 5, 460 E. 5th St., received bruises in the mishap. The accident occurred Friday at 10:40 a.m.

44 Cotter Students in Honor Society

Forty-four Cotter High School students were honored for character, school service, leadership and scholarship at annual National Honor Society induction ceremonies Monday afternoon at the Cotter physical education building.

Participating in the induction program were 16 seniors, 17 juniors and nine sophomores, the latter named to probationary status.

DAN PELOWSKI presided as master of ceremonies and four senior members spoke on qualities exemplified by members. Paul Tushner discussed character; Mary Jo Wood, school service; William Browne, leadership; and Gaylen Meier, scholarship. Parents of students inducted were invited to the ceremonies.

The Rev. James A. McCauley, Cotter principal, spoke on the ideals of the society and said that qualities demanded for members require social, spiritual and mental integrity.

"One must have character of sterling quality which results in a quiet pondering of proper values and a consistency of conduct," Father McCauley said.

HE TOLD the assembly that "Cotter student should have developed their intellectual curiosity to probe the depths of reality and find Truth. Members of the family found him, took him to the Ettrick doctor, and he was transferred to a La Crosse hospital. Sheriff Eugene Bjold was called. He said there was no evidence of an accident.

New Dispute Arises Over Holiday Inn

A new dispute arose today over ownership of the underlying fee title to land at U. S. 61-14 and Huff Street which has been proposed as the site for a Holiday Inn motel.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar F. Witzig, Eau Claire, Wis., have appealed to the state Supreme Court a judgment dismissing their fraud action against the prospective Holiday Inn developers, according to District Court Clerk Joseph C. Page.

THE DISMISSAL was granted Dec. 28 in District Court by Judge Arnold Hatfield after he had heard the evidence produced by the Witzigs to support their claim.

The Witzigs testified that they sold a quit claim deed to an attorney for A. Perry Phillips and Sidney Neale, both of Columbia, Mo., for $100 — when the deed may have been worth $50,000 to them. They sued for return of the deed to them for $100.

The attorney, Roger P. Brosnahan, testified that he explained to the Witzigs why he was asking for their quit claim deed to the land once owned by Mrs. Witzig's father but placed under a park easement in 1906.

HE TOLD THEM that their claim to the land was shaky at best. Brosnahan had testified, but that Phillips and Neale wanted to remove all possible claimants to the title by buying up quit claim deeds.

Brosnahan had offered to have the signing of the deed in the office of the Witzig's attorney, but they declined.

Judge Hatfield agreed with defendants' attorney Lloyd L. Duxbury Jr., Caledonia, Minn., that the Witzigs had not produced any evidence supporting their claim of fraud and dismissed the action.

The judge denied a motion for amended findings made by plaintiffs' attorneys Harry H. Peterson and William H. Skemp. La Crosse, Page said today. The Supreme Court appeal followed today.

ATTORNEYS FOR both sides must agree on a correct printed transcript of the trial and hearing on the motion for amended findings before the Supreme Court sets a date for a hearing.

A recent Supreme Court decision ruled that if the disputed land was to be made available private for development the city must vacate its park easement. The land would then revert to whoever holds title to it, the court ruled.

AT ST. MARY'S COLLEGE

Changes Will Come Faster, Class Advised

Be ready to accept an increasing rate of change, an industrial executive charged the St. Mary's College graduating class Sunday.

There have been tremendous changes in our world in the last 20 years, Paul F. Lorenz told the graduates, and there will be more tremendous changes in the years to come.

LORENZ, vice president of Ford Motor Co. and general manager of its Lincoln-Mercury division, noted that at one time it was said that a college graduate could get along on his job 25 years without having to refresh his store of knowledge. A college graduate going into industry could supposedly coast 10 years, Lorenz said.

Today's college graduate, however, will not have 10 years in which to coast along, he declared. Today's knowledge and technological information will be obsolete in five years, he said.

"You face the challenge of having to run faster just to hold your own," Lorenz asserted. "There will be no shadow for the phony to hide in — no haven for the slackers to rest in."

The speaker, who was an executive assistant to Robert S. McNamara, now secretary of defense, when McNamara was a vice president in the Ford company, maintained that the "history-making experiences" thrust at his generation qualify it to offer advice to the present generation of college graduates.

HE POINTED out that his generation was born in the 1920s, were graduated from high schools in the depression of the 1930s and were drafted into military service during the war that ended with the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

"We have learned something about adjusting to a changing social structure," Lorenz said. He maintained that his generation experienced more scientific, sociological and political changes than any other that came before it. The change of pace, however, has accelerated instead of slowing, he contended.

The generation that is now being graduated from colleges, he said, was — for the most part — born in the 1940s; an age of radio, propeller planes and "generally narrow horizons."

No prophet then could foresee the changes that have taken place in the world during the last 20 years, he declared.

THE RAPID changes, he said, occurred because his generation had "the progressive American spirit," tools provided by education and science and the challenge of the times.

World War II, he maintained, unleashed a force that did more than win the military conflict. "Men came out with a full head of steam, ready to fashion a new world."

Since the war, he asserted, the face of cities and the geography of suburbs and campuses have been changed. Academic standards are more rigorous than they were before the war. Records in athletic, scientific and academic achievements continue to be broken.

All these changes began on the college campuses, Lorenz declared. Those who will bring about the changes in the years to come, he went on, are on these campuses now.

The problem of those leaving college, he asserted, is to keep pace with the ever-increasing body of knowledge. The problem is compounded, he added, because only part of one's time can be devoted to this effort after one leaves school.

A liberal education, however, gives a college graduate the basic skills that enable him to move with confidence in many different kinds of jobs, Lorenz contended.

"YOUR EDUCATION has given you the equipment to keep up with the times, no matter how fast they move," he told the graduates.

He urged that his listeners adopt the principles set forth in Pope John's encyclical, "Pacem in Terris," as "a guide to successful living." He exhorted them to be informed about public events and to share the benefits of their culture and basic education.

The right to life, Lorenz asserted, carries a duty to maintain personal standards with it. A decent standard of living implies a responsibility to live becomingly, he said.

Be ready to accept an increasing rate of change, the speaker told the graduates, but be careful not to discard moral principles, because "these do not change."

Lorenz was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree during the commencement ceremony. It was given to him by Brother J. Gregory, college president.

CANDIDATES for degrees were presented by Brother Julius, dean of studies at St. Mary's.

The professional and recreational were played by Brother Luke, organist.

This was the first commencement exercise to be conducted in the new gymnasium at the college campus. Previous ceremonies have been held outdoors in good weather.

$5 Bet Yields 44 Blood Donors

A bet between a Winona businessman and a Red Cross official resulted in the signing of 44 persons as donors to the current blood drive here.

L. R. Woodworth, president and general manager of Winona Knitting Mills, Inc., began the whole thing by declaring that he could find 50 volunteer donors among his employees.

EVERETT Edstrom, recruitment chairman for the blood drive, replied that Woodworth would be unable to come up with 10 donors.

Woodworth retorted that he would bet $5 that he would come closer to 50 than to 10.

The bet was on. Woodworth won easily — and Edstrom was out $5.

He suspects that Edstrom is glad to have lost the bet, Woodworth said today.

By noon, a total of 51 persons had signed up to give blood today, and there are only 65 additional volunteers for the rest of the week thus far.

The goal for the drive, which began this noon, is 500 pints, which comes down to 125 a day.

THE BLOODMOBILE will be at the Red Cross center, 5th and Huff streets, through Friday. Hour will be noon until 6 p.m. today through Thursday, and 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Friday.

Donors may come to the center without appointment. Mrs. Carl Breitlow, blood program chairman, pointed out, but they might have to wait until those with appointments have been processed.

Only those in good health may donate blood, Mrs. Breitlow said. Donors should eat regular meals before going to the blood center, abstaining from fatty foods only.

Rain Expected Next Several Days

Agreeable temperatures interspersed with scattered showers or thunderstorms is the weather prediction for Winona and vicinity tonight and Wednesday.

The rain is slated for late afternoon or at night. A low of 50-62 is expected tonight and a high of 75-85 Wednesday. Temperatures will be about the same for Thursday when additional showers are expected.

RAINFALL OVER the Memorial Day weekend amounted to .37 of an inch with showers Sunday night, Monday morning and Monday night.

The temperature rose to 61 Saturday afternoon, was 70 on Sunday and 77 Monday. Low Sunday morning was 39, 53 Monday morning and 60 today. At noon today the reading was 76.

Although the low temperature for May was 31, normal for the month was 60.59. A year ago the figure was 61.04. Normal for the month is 56.5.

Precipitation dropped below both last year and the normal figure. Rain during the month amounted to 3.07 inches. A year ago the amount was 4.61. Normal is 4.06.

MAY'S RAIN brought the total for the first five months of 1965 to 11.76, slightly above the normal figure of 10.13. In the first five months of 1964 rainfall totaled 8.42.

A year ago today the Winona high was 68 and the low 40. All-time high for June 1 was 96 in 1934 and the low for the day 33 in 1897. Mean for the past 24 hours was 68. Normal for the day is 65.

Due to the weekend rainfall a slow rise will occur in the Mississippi River. The stage at Winona today was 9.5, up .1 from Monday, and slated to be the same Wednesday but rise to 9.6 Thursday and an even 10 feet on Friday.

THUNDERSTORM activity dumped about three inches of rain on the Twin Cities metropolitan area Monday night and early today, causing washouts, landslides and lake-like accumulations of water to block some main thoroughfares temporarily. Highway department road crews were called out to clear rock and mud that slid onto Highway 13 at Happy Hollow between Mendota and West St. Paul.

Access to Stillwater was available only over city streets for a time because of a rock slide on Highway 95 and deep water on 212.

UNOFFICIAL RAIN measurements at Anoka and Fridley, struck last month by tornadoes, ranged up to six inches.

Many underpasses were flooded and impassable and shoulder washouts on outlying Twin Cities roads were numerous. Several St. Paul area homes were struck by lightning but no major damage was reported.

The Twin Cities rainfall in the 12 hours ending at 6 a.m. was 2.90 inches. It pelted some areas Monday night and early today.

Monday night's downpour brought Twin Cities rainfall for the month to 7.86 inches, the fourth wettest May on record.

Record May rain of 10.33 inches well in 1906.

MINNEHAHA Falls, frequently laughed at because of its meager trickle, will have an adequate flow even if it doesn't rain for the next 30 to 40 days, Minneapolis park officials said.

Lake Minnetonka, source of Minnehaha Creek, was sending about 250,000 gallons per minute over Gray's Bay Dam, highest recorded in the Creek's history, park officials said.

Temperatures over the state today generally were mild with a low of 48 at Duluth and International Falls. Rochester posted a low of 60 after a Monday high of 75 and La Crosse had extremes of 59 and 76 for the same times with 14 in precipitation.

Memorial Day weekend outcrops were marked by heavy rains in WISCONSIN, with some of them heavy enough to cause flash flooding in northwestern Wisconsin.

The Pierce County sheriff's office said the Rush River flooded at various points, including Spring Valley, but no injuries occurred. Some homes were evacuated.

The largest rainfall officially reported was 2.42 inches in the Eau Claire area. Wausau had .59 of an inch and Green Bay .38.

Heavy fog was reported in the Superior region early today. Eau Claire had a thunderstorm, and very light showers were occurring at Clintonville and Stevens Point.

Temperatures were slightly above normal in the southwest, part of Wisconsin and near or somewhat below normal in the north and west Monday. The Beloit region had the high of 82. Others ranged down to Park Falls 62.

Minimum readings at night ranged from 41 at Wausau to 59 at Beloit, Lone Rock and La Crosse.

FRESHERO, TEXAS, set the national high of 103 degrees Monday, compared with the low of 32 early today at Redmond, Ore.

It may not be much but it's all we've got.

Boys Just Sittin' Around the Store

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — In the Stage Barbershop at 54th St. and 7th Avenue nothing quite normal happens... because there are always guys like Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris, Jack E. Leonard and Tom Poston hanging around getting their kicks "watching a few haircuts," as Herb Shriner would say.

One day when I was getting sliced up there, my barber, Frank Gerzanti, stepped outdoors to whistle at Greta Thyssen who was wiggling up the street.

Tom Poston's barber, Pete Castellotti, also stepped out to whistle at the view. Then they both came back in and resumed hair cutting — in their absent-mindedness, though, Frank started barbering Poston and Pete started barbering me.

But the target of most jokes is Alice, a voluptuous blond manicurist with a French background.

One night Jack E. Leonard was appearing at Basin St. E. and saw blonde, low-necked Alice in his audience. He threw some jokes at her and introduced her.

Next night I was at Lou Black's Belly Dance Emporium at the Taft. I saw a voluptuous low-necked blonde across the room.

"Alice must be getting huge tips the way she's making the pub!" I said to my Beautiful Wife. I noticed a photographer taking pictures.

"PROBABLY because of the lateness of the hour" — as they say on my beat when somebody has overimplied — I wrote a note and sent it across the room.

"Dear Alice," I said, "Your boss Frank is always asking me to plug the shop. Have your friend take a picture of you and I'll print it."

The note was pushed from one hand to another and finally got to its termination. I looked over expecting her to giggle and smile and wave.

Instead I received an angry scowl. And a man's hand was laid on my shoulder. "Did you want to talk to that guy?" a voice said, somewhat roughly.

NOT THE guy, I said. "The blonde... Alice, the manicurist I know her from the Stage Barbershop."

"That's not Alice and it's not a girl! That's a guy named Alvin Sinclair from Brooklyn who had one of those operations and is now using the name Abby Sinclair and working very successfully as a stripteaser," said the voice of Bobby Colt, a well-known Broadway manager.

"What did you wish to speak to him about?"

"Who wanted to speak to anybody?" I said.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A young mother said she's waiting for a new cereal — something that'll be nutritious for children, and also put them to sleep.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Fishing is a simple sport. All you have to do is get there yesterday, when the fish were biting.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The trouble with some people is that they see their duty — and they overdo it." — Anon.

They'll Do It Every Time

Latin-American Relations Never The Same Again

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Whatever else comes out of the Dominican crisis, one thing now seems certain. U.S. relations with Latin America will never be the same again.

The United States has embarked on a course from which there appears to be no turning back.

There will be eruptions elsewhere of violence mixed with Communist threats, and in each the question of U.S. intervention will be among the first to arise.

Uncertainty on this point alone is enough to alter the pattern of Latin-American diplomacy and politics. Latin capitals have not had to worry seriously about such American military action for a generation.

The overriding question now is whether the United States will again in the future have to act alone or whether the Latin-American allies will increasingly share the load, as some have already started to do here.

For the United States to go it alone, paying a price of anti-Yankee hatreds, would be, in the view of American officials, costly and perilous. It could feed the very Communist movements Washington wants to discourage and defeat. If the Organization of American States should finally become an effective alliance for joint action, these officials believe, it would greatly strengthen hemisphere security.

The future of the whole inter-American system may depend on the OAS choice between those two courses of action.

In this connection, President Johnson in a speech at Waco, Tex., Friday urged the creation of new inter-American machinery to guard against "forces of slavery and subversion." Only Brazil spoke up in endorsing the idea, but the OAS is expected to get around to a serious discussion of the plan this week.

Joint action will require more than words and resolutions adopted by the OAS in Washington. What will actually happen in the future may be influenced decisively by the final outcome of the operation in Santo Domingo. So far it is only partly successful.

The Marines and airborne troops which Johnson began moving in here April 28 undoubtedly saved lives. They also obviously offset whatever Communist danger existed in the cauldron of revolution a month ago.

Cattle Prices Sharply Higher

WASHINGTON (AP)—A year ago federal farm officials were worrying about low cattle prices and criticisms of livestockmen. Today they are worrying about the possibility of high prices and consumer complaints about meat prices.

This shift in concern reflects a dramatic change in the meat animal supply situation. A year ago, there was a heavy movement of cattle to slaughter markets and imports of beef were at record high levels.

Reflecting several years of favorable returns, cattlemen had built herds to new peaks. A continuing period of gains in

Busy Week For Congress After Holiday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress returned from its long Memorial Day weekend today to face a busy week involving several major votes.

The House schedule was by far the busier.

On top today was a vote on a $2-billion appropriation for the State, Justice and Commerce departments. Little debate was expected.

Wednesday, the House takes up the proposed $4.8-billion cut in federal excise taxes. This would eliminate most excises during the next four years, including the 10 per cent tax on automobiles.

Also on the House calendar this week are measures to continue the President's power to propose, subject to congressional veto, reorganizations of executive departments and to increase the national debt limit from $324 billion to $328 billion.

Amid all this, House backers of a voting-rights bill hope the Rules Committee will decide to clear the legislation for a final vote. The Senate passed its version of the voting-rights bill last week.

The Senate's major business today is a vote on an administration economic development bill designed to stimulate business in economically depressed areas. It would provide $3 billion over five years.

Later in the week, the Senate will consider the $3.37-billion foreign aid authorization approved by the House last week.

Selma Negroes To Continue Picketing Plan

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Negroes angered by new civil rights arrests promised continued picketing of white merchants today and began a drive to integrate Selma schools.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. announced a massive Southwide voter registration campaign designed to double the number of Negro voters within weeks after the expected passage of a new federal voting law.

King made an unscheduled visit to Selma Monday night to add his voice to the chorus of protests over the arrests of 32 Negro pickets carrying boycott signs in downtown Selma. The arrests Monday brought to 132 the number taken into custody since Saturday.

A Selma Negro leader, the Rev. L. L. Anderson, told cheering followers at a mass meeting Monday night, shortly before King spoke, that "commencing tomorrow, we are going to fill the streets up."

He said Negro demonstrators would "sleep there, eat there, and have church there." He said the day-and-night vigil this time would take place in the streets in West Selma, "where the (white) business people live."

King made no mention of specific plans for renewed demon-

City police under Baker's command made the arrests Saturday and again Monday. Adult Negroes among the pickets were charged with violating Alabama's anti-boycott law; juveniles were released.

Part of Memorial Day Service Canceled

Ceremonies commemorating the sacrifices of the nation's war dead were conducted by Winona veterans organizations Monday morning after the public program at Lake Park bandshell arranged by the Memorial Day Association had been canceled because of inclement weather.

Previously announced plans to transfer it to Senior High School auditorium were abandoned.

SERVICES were conducted in the rain at the park by representatives of the Spanish American War Veterans, Veterans of World War I, American Legion and Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, its Auxiliary and the Mad Bombers, Marine Corps League and Gold Star Mothers.

The traditional Memorial Shrine ceremony of the American Legion at its shrine of crosses near the bandshell included the roll call of the war dead of World Wars I and II and the Korean conflict by Lt. Col. Donald T. Winder, USMC (Ret.).

Charles Koeth was bugler and members of the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts placed wreaths on the crosses as names were read in the roll call.

Prior to the ceremonies flowers had been placed by members of the VFW and American Legion auxiliaries in the bases at the front of each cross.

BILL MERRILL'S Something to Live by

Today I have a story of a public speaker, an alcoholic, and the human side of the struggle of trying to help the arrogant, yet needy, down-and-out who is a victim of his own weakness.

The man on the platform stood six foot two inches, spoke fluently, and enthusiastically, but he was working against odds, for in the very rear of the auditorium was a smaller, but stocky built man who was clad in work pants and a T-shirt. Obviously he had been drinking, and was relatively unaware that those about him were well-dressed and quite unlike himself. The man tried to get the personal attention of the speaker by motioning with his hands in much the same manner as one would do in school if he wanted to get the teacher's attention. Once he spoke out in an attempt to stop the speaker that he might have his chance to say whatever was on his mind.

THE SPEAKER held control as he gracefully climaxed his statements and turned the meeting over to another, announcing someone was there to see him.

Now did you ever wonder what you would do if you found yourself in unusual circumstances? The speaker did. Once outside the building, the speaker stepped into the car to talk with his persistent, though intoxicated visitor. Before he knew it, the drunk had started the car and driven off. Talking rather incoherently about what he wanted of his passenger — they crossed a span of water and drove onto an island, stopping in front of a tavern in an area renowned for being really tough.

To make a long story short, the man, not able to get the speaker to join him, left the car and entered the tavern to fortify himself with a glass of beer and another bottle. The speaker was unusually calm. He talked quietly with his abductor, seeking to learn what this was all about. He asked the man to return to the meeting from whence they had come, and the drunk did — in a round-about way.

ONCE IN front of the meeting hall, the speaker said to the man, "Do you know what you want? You want me to scold you. You're ashamed of your actions and you're looking for someone to give you what for. But I'm not going to do it." "I take it," the spokesman went on, "that you think you're quite a man, but I don't think you're much of a man, for if you had (and these were his words) if you had the guts to face your problems like a man, you'd throw this stuff out, (pointing to the bottle) sober up, and meet me tomorrow. When you're sober, and we'll discuss your problems."

With this, the man drove away. He didn't keep the appointment with the speaker the next day. You see, when he drinks, he gets mean. When he's sober, he's a nice guy, the speaker learned later. And nice guys I expect are ashamed to admit they can make such a fool of themselves.

ALREADY IT seems several have tried to help the man, but he keeps going back to it. He's the father of four. If he follows the true course of the alcoholic, he'll have to hit bottom before he can come back to a normal life, and much of his comeback will depend on people like the speaker, (who is a minister), a man at the A.A., his old boss, his wife, and many others who have compassion on such a one consumed in his own weakness.

If drink is your problem, seek help before it is too late. If it's not your problem have compassion. It may help redeem a life.

Ohio Klan Rally Over

LEBANON, Ohio (AP) — The four-day rally that was supposed to show Ohioans the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan are still active in the North was over today and a lot of questions remained unanswered.

The main question concerned the KKK's strength in Ohio, where a governor had to proclaim martial law 40 years ago in an effort to curb the Klan.

Grand Emperor Hugh Morris of Buchanan, Ga., seemed pleased Monday night when he said in the glare of a burning cross that the rally had been successful. He had said earlier that 200 to 500 new members were initiated in the Cincinnati area during the weekend, but there was no increase in the small number of robed Klansmen at the rally.

Several thousand persons visited Parkie Scott's farm near here during the four days and nights of the rally. About 750 people watched a 45-foot cross burn Monday night.

Morris hinted that similar large rallies might be held elsewhere in Ohio and the North, but did not specify where.

Scientists Study New Eclipse Data

HILLO, Hawaii (AP) — Scientists, back from an awesome flight in the moon's shadow as it raced across the Pacific at 1,700 miles an hour, today pored over their observations of a total solar eclipse last Sunday.

The 30 men, jubilant over a mission they called highly successful, flew in a specially modified jet transport of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and conducted 13 experiments.

"The flight was perfect, and every experiment worked," said Dr. Michel Badier, director of NASA's Ames Research Center and leader of the eclipse expedition. "It was a really fine success."

The scientists don't expect to know possibly for months whether they've learned any of the sun's secrets. But they know that they will not soon forget their close-up view of nature's most spectacular show.

David Perlman, science writer for the San Francisco Chronicle, the only newspaper aboard the eclipse plane, described the phenomenon as seen from 39,500 feet.

Flying at nearly 600 miles an hour, the scientists observed the eclipse through their instruments for 9 minutes and 42 seconds.

The airborne observatory intercepted the eclipse after a 2,000-mile chase about 2,110 miles southeast of Hilo. The intercept was "dead-on — precise to the second and accurate within a mile."

The eclipse was entirely over water, from the tip of New Zealand 8,000 miles eastward to the coast of Peru.

Also flying in the shadow of the moon last Sunday was an Atomic Energy Commission Air Force plane with 15 scientists. Their duration in the eclipse was nearly five minutes. Nine experiments were conducted.

Dairy Farmers Have Needed Experience

"IN 20 YEARS OF experience," complained the hired man, "I've never plowed a field the way you say you want this one plowed."

To which the farmer-employer replied: "What you've been doing for 20 years has been PRACTICE... and that's not necessarily experience."

That farmer knew what he was talking about. Experience implies the application of accumulated knowledge and know-how AND the trial of a new approach at the appropriate time. Experience, properly applied, results in improvement and progress.

With June Dairy Month being observed in Minnesota and Wisconsin and nationally for the 29th time, it is both pleasant and appropriate to note that our dairy farmer friends certainly know the difference between practice and experience. As a group, these "businessmen" in overalls have proven themselves unafraid to try new techniques in cattle breeding, feeding and general farm management. The result has been a continuing trend of higher milk production from fewer and fewer cows.

THE SAME KIND of progress may be noted in dairy processing, with ever-improved methods of handling, distribution and merchandising of ever-improved products an established trend.

And just for the record, the economy of increased efficiency has been passed along to the consumer. The "real price" of milk is at its lowest point in history, according to U.S. Bureau of Labor statistics. It now takes the average factory worker only six minutes to earn the price of a quart of milk — delivered to his door.

Change, based on experience, also is very noticeable this year in the promotional activities our dairymen neighbors are carrying on through the American Dairy Association (ADA) programs.

After changing its name earlier this year, ADA of Minnesota (for 28 years it was known as the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee) apparently decided the time was right for a "new look" in its promotion approaches, too.

WE'LL ADMIT to a raised eyebrow when first learning about a dress being fashioned for the state dairy princess from butter cartons. Turns out to be an attractive get-up... and one which gives Princess Kay a ready-made opportunity to talk about the 373-million pounds of butter churned in Minnesota last year to lead all states again in production of the product.

With 475 cartons used in making the dress, it also serves as a novel reminder of the scope of the buttermaking industry in Minnesota. We'll vote to have Princess Kay wear that dress to the American Dairy Princess contest in Chicago (June 20-23). It's bound to draw some national publicity for Minnesota... and Minnesota butter.

The idea of holding the state June Dairy Month kickoff in Metropolitan Stadium with the Minnesota Twins baseball team this year was another new departure. Again, an approach calculated to get the dairy industry's message to more people — both at the event itself and through news channels.

We're also looking forward to seeing that "Butter Beauty Dairy-Go-Round" butter sculpture unit at the next Minnesota State Fair.

All-in-all, we'd say these dairy farmer neighbors of ours, and their state ADA unit, are striking some of their boldest, most imaginative, blows in years on behalf of the industry in general and butter in particular. We wish them good luck through June Dairy Month and in the months and years to come.

LET'S TOAST THEIR success with a cold glass of milk... and, oh yes... pass the butter, please!

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Plymouth Rock, where the Pilgrims first landed, was at the time (according to native researchers) a great big boulder, standing alone on an otherwise rock-free beach. Says a Plymouth guide, "Why any sensible seaman would pull along-side a rock like that when he had all this fine beach at hand is more than I can figure." Most of the Rock of those times is now buried deep in the sands, other fragments have been chipped off by generations of souvenir hunters. Even the part that remains is shattered. Its two sections are held together by a large band of concrete.

New Limit on U.S. Public Debt

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Millions of citizens probably did not notice a small item in the newspapers last week reporting that the secretary of the treasury, Henry H. Fowler, has asked Congress for legislation to increase the limit of the public debt from $324 billion to $329 billion, to take effect on July 1.

Perhaps many citizens think — as do some officials here — that there is not limit to what the government of the United States may borrow, and that raising the public-debt ceiling by $5 billion is a piece of routine.

Actually, there is considerable significance in the fact that the United States treasury keeps on asking Congress periodically to raise the debt limit. This has been going on for several years now. The public debt has risen from $16.2 billion in 1930 to $320 billion in 1956 — only 35 years. The costs growing out of two world wars and the Korean War, of course, pushed up the debt of the government in that period.

BUT IT IS not the increase in military expenses — now about $50 billion a year — which alone keeps the public debt rising. There has been a tendency to spend just as much money on nonmilitary appropriations. For a while, tax rates, instead of being adjusted after a war was over, were retained at not far from the same levels. Only in recent years has there been a recognition of the fact that the tax rates might be inequitable and would produce more revenue if they could be adjusted to stimulate the economy.

But it is one thing to reduce tax rates, and quite another to keep on piling up deficits. If the government continues to spend money for many things that are not absolutely essential, there is no way to bring down expenses and balance the budget.

The average citizen isn't aware of the consequences of continuously unbalanced budgets. He thinks that the government is rich enough to pay its bills and that the public debt can always be refinanced by selling bonds to the banks and to the people generally. The history of governments, however, has shown that, while financing and refinancing is accepted as a normal process, there comes a time when doubts are raised as to whether the purchasing power of the monetary unit can be maintained.

THE DOLLAR doesn't buy today what it did 10 years ago. Just this week, an Associated Press survey shows that costs of some foods are as much as 15 percent higher this spring than a year ago and that in many instances food prices are at a record level. The causes, of course, are numerous. But as prices and wages rise, inflation sets in.

Fears of inflationary trends are often disregarded, on the theory that if the inflation is gradual and not sudden, it can be absorbed. But in the long run the dollar can become weaker and weaker as the government is unable to maintain a sound financial program. A UPI dispatch on Wednesday, for example, read in part as follows:

White Sulphur Springs, Va. — President Johnson's top economic adviser today voiced concern over recent wholesale price increases and warned that inflation could force the government to stop cutting taxes and abandon other expansionary policies as well.

"GARDNER, ACKLEY, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said factory prices have been 'edging up.' While the movement has been slight so far, the number of price increases 'seems to be accelerating,' Ackley said in a speech prepared for delivery to the pharmaceutical manufacturers association.

"The administration official said many of the recent price increases are justified by higher costs and that some of them may not stick or will be eroded by competition. 'Yet there is just enough movement of prices to be disturbing,' he said.

"Surely none of us would welcome moving toward fiscal and monetary policies that restrict economic expansion, so long as resources remain in ample supply, simply as an indirect means of holding prices in check.

"Yet the time may come when pressures do to just that will become very strong," Ackley said."

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Congressmen Still Tripping Despite LBJ's Pleadings

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Despite the President's proposal that U.S. citizens forego unnecessary foreign travel, congressmen are still junketing hither and yon. They almost meet each other coming and going at the taxpayers' expense and at the expense of our balance-of-payments.

No less than 23, led by Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., recently spent four days in Ottawa and Montreal, Canada, discussing "issues of friction and misunderstanding" between our Congress and the Canadian Parliament.

Meantime, three house members — John Kluczynski, D-Ill., Kenneth Gray, D-Ill., and Frank Clark, D-Pa. — were sojourning in Lima, Peru, while discussing the "development of highways and highway transportation" with Latin Americans. The United States has the best system of super highways in the world, but the touring trio apparently figured there might be something to learn below the border while exploring the ancient city of Lima with all expenses paid.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem globe-trotter, will show up at the International Labor Conference in Geneva later in June, then junket to Algiers on June 29 for an Afro-Asian Conference. It should be noted that he did an excellent job for the United States at the Bandung Afro-Asian Conference, defending American progress toward civil rights.

FOUR MEMBERS of the House Armed Services Committee, Reps. William Bray, R-Ind., Otis Pike, D-N.Y., Richard Ichord, D-Mo., and Charles Chamberlain, R-Mich., leave for Viet Nam on June 10 for a ten-day inspection of the conflict area.

Note: Others besides Mansfield and Gallagher who went to Canada were Senators George Aiken, R-Vt., the chairman, Bourke Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., Len Jordan, R-Idaho, Everett Jordan, D-N.C., Gene McCarthy, D-Minn., Frank Moss, D-Utah, James Pearson, R-Kans., Pat McNamara, D-

Mich., and Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii.

Also Reps. William Murphy, D-Ill., Harold Johnson, D-Calif., Irving Whalley, R-Pa., Stanley Tupper, R-Me., Stark Andrews, R-N.D., Robert Stafford, R-Vt., Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., Armistead Selden, D-Ala., Sidney Yates, D-Ill., and Donald Fraser, D-Minn.

Though it's supposed to be secret, there's a very good reason why mail is flooding the Senate Finance Committee opposing the medicare bill.

IT'S INSPIRED by a private letter from Alexander Hutchinson, senior vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, instructing all Metropolitan agents to flood the Senate Finance Committee with mail.

In a three-page letter directed "to the field force in the United States," Vice President Hutchinson instructs a 11 Metropolitan agents regarding Metropolitan's insurance program as compared with the medicare bill now before the Senate.

"It is important for each person who shares the opinion that these provisions of 'medicare' are not in the public interest to communicate his views to both senators from his state, wrote the Metropolitan executive.

Members of the Senate Finance Committee, listed on the attached sheet, are especially important for they are now holding hearings on this measure. Please feel free to use any of the points made in this letter with which you agree, but be sure to put them in your own words."

Then, to make sure that Metropolitan's agents did write, Hutchinson added this kicker: "I would appreciate a report on the reception of your efforts, through each district office."

Note: Metropolitan is probably the biggest life insurance company in the world, with thousands of agents all over the U.S.A. It will be interesting to see what impact they have on the Senate Finance Committee.

SOMETHING awfully funny happened on the way from the Senate Commerce Committee to the full Senate when it came to the confirmation of pro-oil Commissioner Carl Bagge to the Federal Power Commission. Bagge got confirmed with no discussion and not a dissenting vote, even though the Senate was at that very moment engaged in vigorous debate on Negro voting rights, and even though Bagge had been a vigorous opponent of permitting Negroes to live in the swank Chicago suburb, Deerfield, Ill., which has been his home.

On April 14 the Santa Fe railroad attorney, whom LBJ picked for the Federal Power Commission, wrote a long letter to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, chairman of the Commerce Committee, emphatically denying that he was a "leading Deerfield, Ill., segregationist."

But Arthur Shay, writer and photographer for Life magazine, wrote and later testified that he had listened to Bagge on Nov. 23, 1959, make a speech in which he said, "Many of us have worked all our lives to move away from this kind of people (Negroes) on the south side and came here to get away from them."

AFTER THAT Bagge changed his position. He admitted, in effect, that his letter was a misstatement. He called it a "mistake."

Despite this the Senate confirmed without discussion a man who will have sweeping power to regulate the cost of natural gas and electric power to millions of Americans. The Mansfield-Dirksen steam roller for getting things done in the Senate was working so well that most senators did not know this background. When they looked at it later, some concluded that when a federal power commissioner does not stick to the truth, he can't be depended upon to stick to the public interest in regulating gas, oil, and power.

Note — Bagge was nominated by Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, because the vacancy on the FPC required a Republican. Since Dirksen has been in the process of helping the administration pass a Negro voting rights bill, Democratic senators and the administration were not anxious to oppose appointment of his man to the FPC, even though the appointment could affect American economy more than the Negro voting rights bill.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Convulsions in Young Common

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes convulsions in children? Four months ago when my son, was 16 months old he was fine in the morning, began running a fever about noon, and in an hour had convulsions. I was alarmed.

Then recently he had a cold and fever of 102, and looked as though he was about to have a convulsion. He has been healthy otherwise. — Mrs. S. B.

A convulsion is the end result of an explosive discharge or nervous energy, and the muscles contract suddenly and spasmodically. (In adults, twitching and jerking movements, especially while asleep, are believed to represent a very minor form of convulsion.)

Some children are more subject to convulsions than others. Some never experience them. Others may have severe ones. I have seen it happen to my own children, and I sympathize with your alarm.

YET USUALLY there is no need for such alarm. It can happen from causes which otherwise would not upset you — a simple infection, for instance. Fever then follows. Or a cold, measles or other common diseases can cause fever and a convulsion. "Fever convulsions" are not at all unusual in young children under two years old. A study of several hundred children with convulsions showed that more than 90 per cent had no more trouble after that age.

If convulsions persist beyond the age of two, some other cause should be looked for — low blood calcium is one possibility, pinworms another. Occasionally some birth injury or neurological defect may need attention.

But the occasional convulsion accompanying a fever, scary as it seems to be, usually soon becomes a thing of the past. (In adults a chill seems to be the counterpart of a convulsion in a child.)

WHAT TO do when a child has a convulsion? Wrapping him in a blanket is as good a first aid as any. Or if a bathnet is available, putting the child in tepid water, or sponging him with it (but taking care that he doesn't become chilled) will relax him. Or just hold him, until the convulsion passes, so he won't hurt himself.

Quite understandably, there is the temptation to call the doctor. As it virtually always works out, the convulsion is past before the doctor can get his hat and coat on!

Dear Dr. Molner: I am almost 18, have been menstruating since I was 11, but always irregularly. I have missed as much as 22 months at a time. My doctor has been giving me pills but they don't help.

Do you think I could have a child? Am I abnormal or is something seriously wrong? Do you think I could be "straightened out"? — C. C.

There are various possible causes: Faulty nutrition, anxiety or other strong emotional elements, sometimes a glandular disorder (the thyroid may be at fault), or obesity, which can be quite important.

Perhaps it is time for you to ask to be referred to a specialist to make a thorough study. As to whether you can have children, that depends basically on whether you ovulate, and special tests can tell that.

Dear Dr. Molner: Should a curcume of the urethra, which causes a great deal of discomfort, be removed by surgery? Do they usually come back? My regular doctor says it should be removed but the urologist said not to do so. — MRS. A. E.

Since these growths can

By Parker and Hart

be very distressing and may bleed, I concur (so far as I can, without knowing more about your case) with your regular physician. There is no guarantee that the curcume won't return, but as a rule they do not.

The urologist, I will point out, doubtless must have some reason for his recommendation, however. The next question, then, is what alternative does he suggest for relief? Letting you suffer is no answer at all, of course.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a man has an "extra-curricular" affair only several times, could his wife contract a disease from him? I have noticed that I have had a few rashes and sores. They have gone away but then come back, but not as bad.

Now I've noticed that my wife is breaking out with these rashes, and she has also complained about vaginal itching. She does not know about my affair. I have heard that there are no visible sores or symptoms from syphilis, and that only a blood test would show the disease. Is this true? — C. J. T.

You can get syphilis from just one contact with some woman who has the disease. You can then give it to your wife.

From your description, I don't think the signs indicate syphilis, but I have no idea whether you do or don't have it, or whether you have given it to your wife. The original sign is a painless sore, at the point at which the germ enters. If only it were a very painful sore, then we'd control this disease better!

In your case, I suspect that you may have taken home some sort of skin infection, and possibly some form of vaginitis. I suggest that you have a medical examination at once, to be followed by one for your wife. Itches and rashes may not be syphilis, but they need being taken care of, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can plastic surgery correct a congenital deformity such as a cleft lip? That is, can it be made whole? — C.D.H.

Your question isn't as simple as it appears.

Some congenital defects (such as cleft lip, receding chins, noses that are too big or too small, ears that stick out, etc.) can be corrected by plastic surgery. Some others can't.

If your interest is in just the one defect, cleft lip (or, more accurately, cleft palate) the answer is yes. It is best to have it repaired in infancy.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read your column on gout and uric acid. My husband had uric acid stones in his kidney, and one kidney was removed. Will this new drug you mentioned, probenecid, help in his case? He is 49 and has diabetes. — MRS. M. S.

Yes, if the level of uric acid in his blood is high, probenecid will help rid his system of the excess and thus tend to prevent formation of that type of stone in his remaining kidney.

NOTE TO W.G.M.: Sure, lots of people like raw onions. Eat 'em if you like 'em, but onions won't drive away pinworms or other parasites.

HARRIS SURVEY

People Cool To Change in Immigration

By LOUIS HARRIS

The American public, although largely descended from people who came to a new land to escape the persecution, famine and chaos of other lands, today by better than 2 to 1 opposes changing immigration laws to allow more people to enter this country. What is more, President Johnson's proposal that immigrants be admitted on the basis of skills rather than by country quotas meets with a tepid response.

In fact, a survey of public opinion reveals that Americans prefer people from Canada and Northern and Western Europe as immigrants and tend to oppose immigrants from Latin America, Southern and Eastern Europe, Russia, the Middle East and Asia.

The surface reasons given for this opposition are that the United States is overcrowded now with population, that there are not enough jobs to go around and that our own people should be helped first. But perhaps the most significant insight in the entire survey is provided by those people whose fathers or grandfathers themselves were immigrants. Almost without exception, key nationality groups express opposition to liberalization of the immigration laws.

A national cross-section was asked:

"President Johnson has proposed that the immigration laws of this country be changed to allow more people into the United States as immigrants. From what you know or have heard, do you favor or oppose letting more people come to the United States as immigrants?"

On both sides of the issue, people are outspoken about their feelings.

A 53-year-old businessman from Macon, Ga., said of immigrants from abroad, "Most of them are just like Negroes and will only bring on trouble."

A 42-year-old third generation white collar worker of Irish descent from Mount Vernon, N.Y., said, "Just ride New York's subways and you'll find the immigrants smell and are dirty and impolite. Push you around, have no respect. Keep them out." A 54-year-old farmer in Centerfield, Ky., said, "When they come in, we can't tell whether they are Communists. The Reds say they'll take us over without firing a shot. Immigration is the way they plan to do it."

But a 61-year-old skilled worker in Brooklyn disagreed. "The country was founded by immigrants and I myself am one. It's what can keep us great." The wife of a businessman in San Pedro, Calif., said, "Very often immigrants make better citizens than the native born."

A Wisconsin salesman said, "We have gotten a lot of well-educated and brilliant scientists from other countries. Look at that Von Braun and the space program." Then he added, "Of course, it all depends on who they are and where they are from."

In an effort to meet criticism of existing immigration laws, President Johnson recently proposed that the laws be changed as indicated in the following question:

"One of the proposed changes in the immigration laws is to base quotas on the skills of people to be admitted to the United States rather than on the basis of their country of origin. Would you be in favor of such a change in the immigration laws or do you think a country quota system is right?"

Part of the reason for the reluctance of Americans to lower the barriers to immigration rests in the aversion many Americans express to people from countries covering over three-quarters of the world's population. People were asked:

"Here is a list of countries and parts of the world. If we are going to allow more people into this country as immigrants, which countries or places on this list would you most prefer they came from?"

"And which countries or places would you least like to see immigrants into the United States come from?"

By contrast, the people who tend to want more immigration are descended from those countries which most Americans want shut out from further entry.

Omaha Youth Drowns When Canoe Tips

YANKTON, S.D. (AP)—An Omaha, Neb., teenager drowned in Lewis and Clark Lake near here Monday, when a canoe he and two other boys were in overturned.

The victim was identified as David Kopfle, 13.

He and two other boys, Walter Nettekke II, about 15, of Omaha, and Clark Siebrant, about 15, West Point, Neb., had rented a canoe on the Nebraska side of the lake, located on the Nebraska-South Dakota border.

When they failed to return after several hours, Nettekke's father went looking for them. He spotted the overturned canoe with young Siebrant clinging to it. The Kopfle boy's body was found face down in the water. Nettekke's son swam to safety.

Successful Canoe Trip Ends

RUSHFORD, Minn. — "Canoeists found plenty of challenge in the Root River," Bob Bunke, Rushford, said Sunday afternoon on returning from the three-day, 54-mile trip that started at Chatfield Saturday morning.

"The Root is a lot trickier than we had realized," he said. Experienced canoeists liked this. Some of the inexperienced were dumped into the river and lost part of their gear, but that was all part of the game.

THERE WERE more rapids than anyone knew about—some were 400 to 500 feet long, and averaged 100 feet. It took skill to turn left or right to avoid that boulder ahead.

They found the stream fast. Particularly in the upper reaches, it dropped six or seven feet within 500 feet, in some spots. They started running into fast water right after the 51 canoeists pulled away from Parsley bridge where the trailblazers kick-off ceremonies were held.

After Saturday night's camp-out at Lanesboro in an open pasture surrounded by woods, the promoters decided that by comparison with park camping at Rushford, primitive camping fits a canoe trip best.

Some 37 campfires brightened the camp at the site three miles north of Lanesboro the first night out. There was singing to the music of ukuleles, guitars, and mouth organs after charcoal-cooked chicken supper served by Lanesboro Sportsmen's Club.

CANOEISTS started coming into Lanesboro after the 22-

SECOND CAMPSITE. Canoeists stopped at Rushford Park the second night out but have pinpointed a more primitive spot where they'll camp on the next trip. (Jim Bunke photo) mile trip from Chatfield about 5:30 p.m. and straggled in in small groups.

"You'd think there'd have been one long line of the 52 canoes going down the river close together," Bunke said, "but it doesn't work out that way. Sometimes you don't see more than the two canoes in your immediate party for hours. The rapids slow them up."

"Then suddenly you'll find a group who have stopped to rest on a sandbar. The sandbars will rival the Mississippi River sandbars."

Minneapolis canoeists found the wildlife interesting, like the mother duck who played possum. She limped off to lead them away from her young. They saw muskrats and baby coon, but no deer. In the party were women teachers from Rochester, a student at St. Catherine's, St. Paul, from North Dakota who wants to teach in the area because she became so enthralled with the Root River Valley; there were Explorer Scouts in the party, a doctor from Rochester, broker from Minneapolis, people from as far away as Eveleth, and many from the immediate area. There were 62 canoes on the river Sunday.

"YOU DON'T think anything of rain," Bunke said. Clothes were hung up to dry around campfire at night.

The sunrise Protestant services at Lanesboro, conducted by the Rev. Leon Holman, were impressive. Catholics were transported to St. Patrick's.

"The food was wonderful," Bunke said. Sportsmen's clubs served on the banks of the river all the way to Houston, where the trailblazer trip ended Sunday at 1:30 p.m. Catholic men served Sunday breakfast at Rushford.

"When are you having your next trip?" the canoeists wanted to know.

They had seen the abandoned Brightsdales dam above Lanesboro, traveled through fog, taken refuge on shore during the weekend storms although getting wet is part of the fun, had been scolded by a nest of crows—who didn't like them camping under their tree, discovered the river deeper than their paddles in some places—perhaps eight feet—were welcomed to the area by banners and city signs along the way, saw Cushing's Point, the Memorial Hardwood Forest, and many of the folks in the friendly towns who flocked at the bridges and at their campsites to see something besides water in the familiar Root River.

State Highway Patrolman Makes Citizen's Arrest

A Rochester man was charged with drunken driving Sunday night after his arrest on Highway 74 near Troy by an off-duty highway patrolman.

Sheriff George L. Fort said today that James D. Walsh posted $150 bond to guarantee his appearance Wednesday at 2 p.m. in St. Charles municipal court to answer the charge.

Oscar Krenke, Lewiston, made the citizen's arrest on Walsh Saturday at 10 p.m.

Sheriff Fort also reported that he broke up a party of juveniles in a stone quarry west of Beaver, about half a mile south of the Wabasha County line, Saturday night.

Two youths were taken into custody on charge of being minors with beer in possession. The others hadn't been drinking, the sheriff said. Two two to be charged will be turned over to juvenile authorities.

An attempted break-in Sunday night at United Parcel Service, 3910 4th St., Goodview, was also reported to the sheriff. Company officials found a round pry mark on a door at the west side of the building Monday. Entry was not gained.

City Requiring Certified Flood Pay Records

City Recorder John S. Carter said he is requiring certified payrolls from contractors who worked in the emergency flood control project. This is necessary since all accounts will be audited, he explained.

Nearly 1,000 checks remain in his office to be picked up by persons who worked on the dikes, Carter said. Corrected payrolls have now been completed and some checks have been mailed in instances where workers' addresses were available.

Carter said he will announce a cutoff date for payments soon. Checks which remain in his office after that time will be voided and credited back to the emergency fund.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself.

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

Are you out of your mind? Drawing grease pencil pictures on the pastel panels at the New Montgomery Ward store right before the grand opening June 3? Why, Russ Price, the Wards manager, would have you tracked down and de-antennivated. How would you like not being able to communicate?

You leave those pretty panels just as they are — a part of the pleasant decor in the new Wards store.

Instead of being an imp, why don't you spend your time looking for bargain prices on quality merchandise. Everybody else in the Winona trade area is going to.

Grissom and Young Help Gemini Crew

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — What can experienced space travelers tell two rookies? Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young — the first manned Gemini mission crew — believe they can make the four-day flight James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II are to start Thursday a bit easier.

"I plan to sit down with them and talk it over," he said. Grissom is the only man to have flown in space twice.

Young said he had written a 50- to 60-page report on personal observations made while he and Grissom orbited the earth three times during the first manned Gemini flight March 23.

"They are free to take the report any way they want to," said Young, "but to try to help those guys, to minimize any new type experience for them — well, they're going to have to live in that baby four days. It's a tough mission."

Young says he will tell McDivitt and White not to be shocked when the sheet of fire closes around the spacecraft after the first-stage engine shuts down and the second-stage engine starts.

"It was a surprise for me," Young said. "You get this flash of light, what we call fire in the hole. It's instantaneous. It's like all of a sudden you see it, and then you don't. You don't have time to even think about it. Gus knew about it, so it didn't surprise him."

"Young said the four-day mission would be the 'proof of the pudding as far as the spacecraft is concerned.'"

"I don't think there's anything the man has to do in the four days that he can't do, but it will be a good systems test," he said. "A really good systems test for extended mission operation for Gemini."

A big surprise, the jolt that comes when the landing-parachute system changes from a one-point suspension to two-points, won't be a shock to McDivitt and White. They will be ready for it, which was more than Grissom and Young were.

Young has spent the past three weeks at McDonnell Aircraft Corp., makers of the Gemini spacecraft in St. Louis, working out a system to reduce the hard jerk.

Grissom shattered his helmet's face plate when the jolt occurred and Young scratched his. It was determined the force was about 2½ times the force of gravity. But no solution has been worked out for McDivitt and White. They will have to make sure their harnesses are tight and be ready. A spring-bumper device may be installed for future Gemini flights.

Israel-Jordan Dispute Rising

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel accused Jordanian forces of firing on the Israeli sector of Jerusalem Monday, killing two persons and wounding four. Jordan countered that Israeli troops provoked a clash with Jordanian forces.

Gunfire was heard again in the area early today, but no details were available immediately.

NATO Study On Control of Bombs Urged

PARIS (AP) — The United States has proposed that a committee of four or five NATO members be set up to study nuclear policy and procedures for the Atlantic Alliance to give America's allies a bigger voice in nuclear decisions.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara advanced the proposal to a session of the defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It apparently was a new U.S. effort to meet demands of France and other NATO partners for a voice in the life-and-death decisions that might face the West in a future crisis.

McNamara said the committee should meet as promptly and frequently as necessary to study:

— How to expand Allied participation in planning the use of both strategic and tactical nuclear forces.

— Methods for quick consultation among NATO members on any decision to use nuclear forces. This could include "hot lines" between NATO capitals.

McNamara said the United States wants to join other NATO nations in working out measures to provide greater "nuclear participation" for members so desiring.

He said this would be in addition to anything the alliance might do about the controversial proposals for a multilateral nuclear force (MLF) or an Atlantic nuclear force (ANF). Both projects have encountered stiff opposition from French President Charles de Gaulle.

60,000,000 TIMES A DAY

The American people buy this many daily newspapers every day. Newspaper circulation has been climbing steadily ever since the appearance of America's first daily more than 180 years ago... and it's still growing. Last year daily newspaper circulation reached a record 60,412,266—an increase of more than 1,500,000 over 1963—the greatest single increase in almost 20 years!

HOW DAILY NEWSPAPER CIRCULATION HAS GROWN IN THE POST-WAR PERIOD

More people are buying newspapers today because newspapers have more to offer. Statistically, they carry more news in greater depth as well as more advertising than ever before.

There is hardly an American home that doesn't receive at least one daily newspaper regularly. People depend on their newspapers. Could you get along without yours?

Over 15,000 See Arcadia Parade

ARCADIA, Wis. (Special) — A crowd estimated at between 15,000 and 18,000 watched the parade at the Arcadia Broiler-Dairy Festival Sunday and stayed on for barbecued chicken, square dancing, and the state finals wrestling match Sunday night which closed the event.

Highlight of the mile-long parade was Arcadia's new queen, Phyllis Rippley, star of the coronation ball Friday night. She and her attendants, Barbara Patzner and Susan Erickson, rode on the Arcadia Fryers float.

A warm sun shown on the parade of 10 bands, other musical units and numerous floats — 60 units in all. The weather, cool in the morning, warmed for the festival events during the day.

SATURDAY night's feature was professional heavyweight horse-pulling. Russell Larson, Denmark, Wis., placed 1st with his 4,000-pound team pulling 3,500 pounds 18 feet 10 inches on the dynamometer, the equivalent of 24 tons on wheels or eight 14-inch plows turning the earth six inches deep.

Second was won by Marshall Grass, Blair, his 4,000-pound team pulling 3,500 pounds 17 feet 2 inches.

Third went to Marvin Starks, DeForest, 4th, Dale Thompson, Peterson, Minn., whose 4,000-pounders pulled 3,100 pounds 22 feet 11 inches; 5th, Aubrey Skinner, Reedsburg; Steve Lance, Bloomer, 6th; Chuck Schaff, Chetek, 7th, and Kenneth Hoffman, Blue River, 8th.

FIVE TEAMS pulled in the amateur heavyweight Saturday afternoon.

In the state wrestling finals Sunday night, Jack Guy took the title from Little Bear. In the free-for-all, Chief Little Bear was last in the ring.

GOP Policy Committee In Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican Policy Coordinating Committee meets today to update the party's 1964 platform. Some declarations probably will be critical of some aspects of President Johnson's program.

Although the Republicans are having difficulty preserving a unified front on such matters as state bans on the union shop, they are expected to find others on which the 23-member committee can agree easily.

Meanwhile, Ray C. Bliss, chairman of the coordinating group and GOP national chairman, has announced the National Committee will meet in Washington June 28-29.

With former GOP presidential nominees scheduled to sit in on the sessions, the coordinating committee will sift the recommendations of task forces on federal-state relationships, human rights, job opportunities, fiscal matters and the conduct of foreign relations.

It will be the first session attended by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Former nominees Thomas E. Dewey, Richard M. Nixon and Barry M. Goldwater are expected to be on hand. Only former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas indicated he couldn't come.

Members of the committee from the House are expected to press for a declaration calling for linking a reduction in federal spending with a proposed cut of about $5 billion in excise taxes.

The Republicans already have laid the groundwork for an attack on what they call the administration's failures in the foreign policy field.

Nonetheless, GOP leaders have supported the President's course in Viet Nam and his intervention in the Dominican Republic revolt. They are expected to reaffirm this support.

Mrs. King Heads Area Jaycees In St. Charles

ST. CHARLES, Minn. (Special) — Mrs. John P. King was named president of St. Charles Area Mrs. Jaycees at the awards banquet at Michael's in Rochester last week.

Mrs. Arvin Mueske was named state delegate at the installation-awards dinner. Mrs. David Allen, treasurer, and Mrs. Lynn Partington, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. King was presented a corsage and the engraved silver tray passed on each year to the outstanding Mrs. Jaycee. Mrs. David Nimow, outgoing president, presided and received a past president's pin. Misses David Heim, William Heim and David Allen were recognized for outstanding contributions.

Doctors Check McDivitt, White

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Two healthy young men see their doctor today for checkups they probably don't need.

The medical examinations for astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II were necessary to provide data for comparison with that gathered during and after their flight in the Gemini 4 spacecraft.

The countdown begins Wednesday for a Thursday morning launch of the two-man spacecraft on the nation's longest and most spectacular space journey yet.

Christopher C. Kraft, Project Gemini director, planned an all-afternoon session with the astronauts, their doctor, the people who have babied the spacecraft and its Titan 2 booster rocket, weathermen, guidance technicians and range supervisors.

It's a mission review meeting to determine that everyone is ready and the countdown can begin.

McDivitt and White will attempt a world first — a rendezvous mission in which they will maneuver their craft close to another orbiting satellite, their worn-out second-stage booster. White, connected to the spacecraft by a 25-foot tether, will step into space while traveling 17,500 miles per hour and move to within 20 feet of the tumbling booster. He will remain out of the spacecraft for 10 to 12 minutes, taking pictures.

The prime objective of their 97-hour, 50-minute flight is to provide Dr. Charles A. Berry, the space agency's chief of medical operations, with information on the effects of prolonged exposure of man to the weightless, airless vacuum beyond the atmosphere.

Written in Berry's appointment book for the two Air Force majors today were a three-hour tip-toe medical examination, and a session on the tilt table.

Pepin Traffic Officer's Final Weekend Busy

DURAND, Wis. (Special) — Citations were issued in two of three non-injury accidents in the Durand area over the weekend.

Gaylord Arendt was cited for striking the 1961 car of Duane R. Schuh, 24, Arkansaw, in the Arkansaw recreation parking lot Saturday at 12:45 a.m. Approximately $90 damage was done to the Schuh car by Arendt's car, according to Donald McMahon, who investigated all three accidents.

The 1963 four-door sedan driven by Kathleen Bates, 19, was struck from the rear by the 1961 convertible driven by Carl J. Stuart, 21, Saturday a 12:50 a.m. on Highway 10 at the Ponderosa rooster stand about one mile west of Durand. McMahon estimated damage to the Bates car at $150 and $600 to the Stuart car. Stuart was given a citation.

At 4 a.m. Monday Bernard A. Stewart, 17, returning to Durand veered left about one-half mile west of the Chippewa River bridge and struck a guard rail. The 1955 model stopped partially in the wrong lane. Damage was estimated at $600, more than the car is worth, McMahon said.

Having resigned as Pepin County traffic officer, McMahon was through Monday at 6 p.m. Traffic officer applications are being received by the sheriff's and justices' committee of the county board until today.

Here's Another A-Frame House

By ANDY LANG
The vacation home market continues to grow. More and more persons are finding it desirable to invest in second homes.

Increasing amounts of leisure time have made it practical to get away from it all for a while, something which could not be done easily when the man of the house worked six days a week and got very little time off for vacations and holidays.

INTERLOCKED with the demand for more vacation homes is an upgrading of quality. Second homes these days are not the shack-like structures of years ago. Used to modern conveniences, home owners want many or all of them in their part-time residences.

Also, some buyers see vacation houses as possible future retirement dwellings, while still others are interested in immediate year-round homes in lake, shore and mountain areas.

A house that fulfills these needs is Design H-85, a creation of architect Lester Cohen. It utilizes the A-frame plan, which has attained so much popularity because of its economy of construction as well as its interesting rustic appearance.

INSIDE THE basic dimensions of 24' 10" by 37' 2" are a combination living-dining room, a kitchen, three bedrooms, three baths, a family room, a utility room and a garage—a lot more living area than might be supposed.

But many persons would find an additional feature, the outside balcony, the most valuable asset of all. It stretches across the front of the house and half-way around one side.

The front of it can be reached through sliding glass doors from the living-dining room, the side of it from another part of the same room. Since this side entrance is close to the kitchen, that part of the balcony serves nicely as an outdoor dining deck.

For getting onto the balcony without going into the house, there is an outside stairway not visible from the front. It's easy to see how the outside balcony could become the most popular part of this home.

ARCHITECT Cohen has been able to provide all the comforts of modern living in this modernized structure by a three-level arrangement. At grade level, sliding glass doors lead to a family room, with a bath, dressing room and fireplace. For indoor recreation or just relaxing, this informal section is ideal.

By leaving the regular living area free for more formal occasions, housekeeping is made easier. In back of the family room are a utility room, a large amount of storage space and a garage.

On the first floor, to the rear of the fireplace living-dining room, are a kitchen, two baths and two bedrooms. The kitchen is small, but has a snack bar and a good layout of counters and appliances, making for efficiency without a camping-out quality.

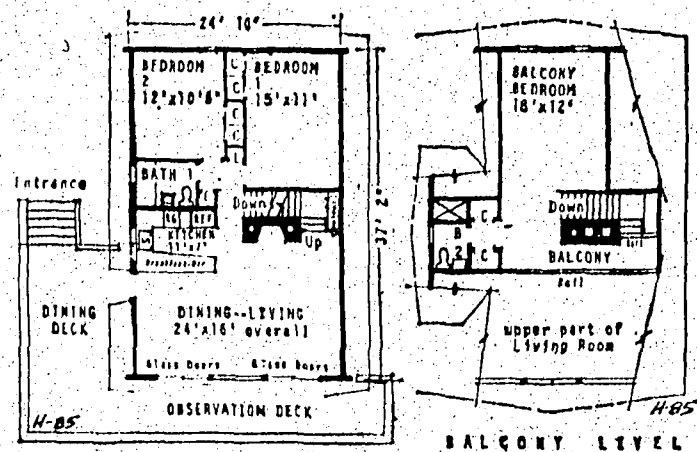

A BEDROOM with a private bathroom and two closets is on the balcony level. Since this room is 18' long, it could be used as a master bedroom, as a room for two children or as a guest room. In a neat arrangement, most of the stairway to the balcony is hidden behind the chimney, making the railed balcony appear to be hanging in air.

To the left of the house is what might be called a boat-por. Whether used for storing a boat or for any other purpose, it has an entrance to the lower level, a convenient setup

A FOR EXCELLENCE: The delightfully rustic appearance of this A-frame house contrasts somewhat with the modern design and conveniences of the interior, with a three-bedroom plan which enables it to be used as a year-round as well as vacation home.

FLOOR PLANS: A three-level layout permits all the main rooms of the house to be placed on one floor, with an extra bedroom and bath on a balcony, and a family room, dressing room, bath, utility room, storage area and garage at grade level.

since a bathroom and a dressing room are located just inside the doorway. The boat-por and the entire front of the house are covered by the outside balcony, providing an excellent spot for those who wish to relax outdoors yet stay out of the direct rays of the sun.

Vacation or permanent home, this design is for easy living.

H-85 Statistics

Design H-85 has 925 square feet of living area on the main level, with a combination living-dining room, a kitchen, a bathroom and two bedrooms.

An 18' by 12' bedroom and a bath are on the balcony level. A family room, dressing room, bath, utility room, laundry, storage area and garage are on the grade level. A wide outdoor balcony provides a relaxing and dining area at the front and side of the A-frame and a shaded section underneath.

The covered area at the side can be used for storing a boat. Overall dimensions, not including the outside balcony, are 37' 2" by 24' 10".

City Issues 12th House Permit of '65

The 12th permit to be written for construction of a new house in Winona this year was issued last week at the city engineer's office and was one of eight permits with a total valuation of $31,950 to be taken.

The house permit was drawn by Philip Conway, 1876 Gilmore Ave., for construction at 1751 W. Mark St., of a 54- by 35-foot, two-story house with attached garage and gas-fired forced air heating. The house will be built by Brugger & Nelson and cost was estimated at $15,000.

UNITED BUILDING Center, Inc., 75 Kansas St., received a permit for construction of a storage building on its property.

The 50- by 150-foot, one-story building will be erected by P. Earl Schwab at 59 Kansas St. at an estimated cost of $12,500. Three buildings on the property will be removed to provide a site for the new structure.

The Fathers of the Sacred Hearts, Terrace Heights, will erect a shrine on their property. Constructed of stone, it will be 14 by 3 feet and 14 feet high. Cost was set at $2,200.

These and the other permits issued last week raised the total valuation of permits for new building, repairs and alterations written this year to $1,816,935, compared with $1,493,274 at the same date a year ago.

There had been 22 new house permits issued at this time last year.

LAST WEEK'S other permits: Harold Kreuzer, 550 Mankato Ave., $300 for remodeling at The Rustic Bar.

James Larson, 107 E. Lake Blvd., $1,000 for construction of a 24- by 30-foot garage.

Durward Kiral, 644 Clark's Lane, $200 for garage remodeling.

Permits for GAS-FIRED installations were issued to: Paul A. Meier Plumbing Co., for Jerry Koch, 309 Elmhurst. Quality Sheet Metal Works, for Russell Steyer, 574 W. Wabasha St.; Ben Malotke, 702 E. 2nd St.; Sawyer & Darby, 59 W. 3rd St.; George Grangaard, 1108 W. Mark St.; and Irvin Blumentritt, 1672 Gilmore Ave.

Agreement Averts Strike In Aluminum

NEW YORK (AP) — The Aluminum Co. of America — the nation's largest producer — reached agreement with the United Steelworkers and the United Auto Workers unions today on the eve of a threatened industry-wide strike.

The agreement set the pattern for the rest of the industry. Alcoa announced immediate price increases. The rest of the industry was expected to follow suit.

Another union, the Aluminum Workers International, representing some 15,000 workers at Alcoa and Reynolds Metals Co. plants, continued negotiations beyond the midnight contract expiration.

Although Aluminum Workers International leaders here did not call a strike, at least one plant was struck, and pickets appeared at others.

A high steel union source said early today that the Steelworkers also had reached agreement on the same Alcoa economic package with Reynolds, Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., Olin-Mathieson Chemical Corp., and the Ormet Corp.

The new agreements affect some 37,000 employees in the industry, 32,000 of them members of the Steelworkers' Union.

Toxic Fire Extinguishers Now Illegal

A bill signed May 11 by Gov. Karl Rolyaag makes the sale and possession of "toxic" fire extinguishers illegal, Fire Marshal Cleo Keiper said.

Toxic extinguishers are, in general, those which operate by vaporizing a liquid chemical, like carbon tetrachloride, Keiper noted.

STORES ARE no longer allowed to sell such extinguishers, and persons and companies will not be allowed to use the toxic extinguishers which they may have had on hand for years.

Passage of the state law banning these extinguishers is a long-needed measure, according to Keiper. The federal government banned them in 1946 because of the many deaths which had resulted from their use.

The danger of the liquid-vaporizing extinguishers is that the vapor they put out is a poison, readily taken into the body through the skin and by breathing.

The danger from these poisonous vapors is greatest in confined places, where the vapors can become concentrated. Ironically, extinguishers of the carbon tetrachloride type are most effective against fires when used in confined areas.

CARBON tetrachloride and related liquid chemicals used in fire extinguishers are taken into the fatty tissues of the body, according to Dr. Robert M. Farrier of the United States Public Health Service.

The poison first attacks the brain, causing depression in the central nervous system, according to Dr. Farrier. Liver and kidney failure follows, accompanied by a serious imbalance in red and white blood cells.

If a relatively small dose of the poison enters the system, a person can survive all these malfunctions and regain his health as his liver detoxifies the poison.

In fatal cases, the liver or kidneys are simply overwhelmed by the volume of poison, Dr. Farrier says.

KEIPER SAID that pressurized water and dry chemical hand extinguishers are now on the market. These types, with CO2 extinguishers already in use, are both effective and safe, the fire marshal said.

The dry chemical extinguishers are best because they can be used to put out any kind of fire, according to Keiper. Water can put out wood, paper and cloth fires but is ineffective against oil or gasoline blazes and dangerous when used on electrical fires.

The dry chemical extinguisher is safe and effective for all three types of fire, according to Keiper.

The new state law banning toxic extinguishers makes it a misdemeanor for any person or company to sell, buy, exchange or have in possession one of the liquid chemical fire extinguishers.

Members of local fire departments and of the office of the state fire marshal are responsible to enforce the law. They are authorized to issue written orders directing owners of the outlawed extinguishers to remove them.

A 15-DAY period is allowed for compliance after which charges may be brought and the fire inspector can remove the extinguisher himself.

Keiper said that the Winona fire department's regular safety inspections now include a check on extinguishers. Building owners will be informed of the law's application to them as the inspections progress.

Keiper noted that a restaurant inspection last week had revealed three of the liquid chemical extinguishers, which the owner immediately replaced with dry chemical models.

Liver should be cooked within 24 hours after purchase; if it is not prepared within that period, put it in the freezer.

Let's Get Growing
By A. F. SHIRA
Winona Rose Show

WITH the rose show of the Winona Rose Society scheduled to be held on Saturday, June 12, at the Winona National and Savings Bank, prospective exhibitors will be casting their eyes weatherwise during the intervening days. The temperatures from now until show time can well determine the number of specimen blooms that will be on display.

The schedules that give the rules and regulations governing the show have been issued and any person who expects to enter exhibits can secure a copy by calling at the Winona National and Savings Bank, Winona. They follow the procedures of the rose shows in the past and any amateur grower of roses in the area is eligible to enter exhibits.

All specimen blooms for competition must have been grown outdoors by the exhibitor. An exhibitor may enter as many roses as desired in any specimen class providing that each rose rose is a different variety.

Entries can be made from 7:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. on June 12. The entry tags and containers for specimen roses will be furnished by the show committee. The exhibitors, in the arrangement classes, of course, furnish their own containers. The show will be open to public viewing from 2 to 8 p.m.

THE GOLD, silver and bronze certificates of the American Rose Society will be awarded in both the specimen and arrangement divisions of the three highest scoring blue ribbon winners. The Winona Rose Society is affiliated with the national organization. Also, first, second and third place ribbons will be awarded in each class and special prizes will be given as may be determined by the show committee.

The show this year includes four Winona Rose Society Challenge Classes in the horticultural division for members only as follows: The Winona National and Savings Bank Perpetual Trophy; The Clay and Helen Rohrer Perpetual Trophy; The Palma Thompson Perpetual Trophy; and The Stockton Perpetual Trophy. Exhibitors in the last two classes must, also, be members of the American Rose Society.

THE SPECIMEN classes under Division I are divided into seven sections as follows: Hybrid teas under 16 color classes; floribundas in 16 color classes; followed by the grandifloras, polyanthas, climbers, miniflours, old garden roses and collections of three in one container, each a different variety of the type.

Under the arrangement section in Division III is the "Hazel Johnson's Mother's Memorial Perpetual Trophy" to be awarded for a composition of not less than seven arrangement roses in an old container. Competition for this trophy is open to members only.

The decorative arrangements in the open classes comprise 9 classifications as follows: First, "Roses for Father's Family and Home," and second, "Roses for Father's Friends and Neighbors." Roses must predominate in all of the general arrangement classes, most of which are specified to be arranged grown. Other flowers, foliage and accessories are permitted in all classes unless otherwise indicated.

THERE ARE classes for novice exhibitors who have never won an award in any rose show. This applies both to the specimen classes as well as to arrangements.

SPLIT WITH ORIOLES FOR 6-2 ROAD RECORD

Twins Back in Friendly Territory

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota Twins road show, featuring a highly successful juggling act by manager Sam Mele, returns to the friendly confines of Metropolitan Stadium this week, hard-pressed to improve upon the eight-game swing into hostile territory.

When the Twins took to the road, they were still playing the season-long game of chasing the Chicago White Sox for leadership in the American League. The roles have been reversed, with the Twins holding a one-half game lead over the Sox, thanks to a 6-2 road trip.

Mele's fondness for lineup switches worked splendidly in Monday's first game against the Baltimore Orioles, but not so well in the second. But then there isn't a lineup around the American League that has caught up to the Orioles' Stu Miller, a junkman with a mystifying assortment of pitches—the fastest of which is best described as quite slow.

Mele's maulers sent veteran Robin Roberts crashing to his sixth straight loss, by a score of 6-0. The shutout went to lefty Jim Kaat, who has been having his own troubles of late.

22 Cars Quit During Action

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The bagpipers played long and loudly for Scot Jimmy Clark's record-smashing big Indianapolis 500-mile auto-race triumph in a safe, sane but mechanically fatal Memorial Day motor classic.

It was the first victory by a foreigner since the 1916 race was won by Italy's Dario Resta. However, paeans also sounded for the greatest showing by rookie drivers, who won five of the first nine places in Monday's methodical grind which bowled out ailing machines like ten-pins.

The new breed of rear-engine speedsters, 27 in all against four one-time Offenhauser roadsters and two ill-fated Novis, was far less durable than the new breed of drivers.

Twenty-two cars were knocked out of the race, most of them before it was half finished, leaving only 11 running when Clark won with a record average of 150.686 m.p.h., about five miles ahead of runner-up Parnelli Jones of Torrance, Calif., the 1963 champion.

Nine of 17 rear-engine Fords and nine of 10 rear-engine Offys limped off the track. Two of the four Offy roadsters finished, but neither Novi did.

Third was Italian-born rookie Mario Andretti, now from Nazareth, Pa., who as well as Clark and Jones shattered the former record of 147.35 m.p.h. set by 1964 winner A. J. Foyt, of Houston, Tex.

Luckless Foyt, Monday's pole driver and also 1961 champion, virtually handed the race to Clark when the transmission failed on his modified Lotus-Ford after battling the Scot closely for 290 miles.

Then, all the slick-driving bachelor farmer from Duns, Scotland, had to do was keep his snarling green and yellow Lotus-Ford on the beam for a no-contest triumph.

That set off a screeching band of bagpipers, led by two tethered Scottish terriers.

The last half of the 200 whirls around the 2½-mile Speedway found the more than 220,000 fans applauding the tight second-place battle between Jones and Andretti.

With a cupful of fuel in his tank, Jones loafed under the checkered flag with a 149.2 m.p.h. average for second and the 25-year-old Andretti, also driving a rear-engine Ford, was third with 149.1 m.p.h.

Jones, who loaded only 25 gallons in his 55-gallon-capacity car in his last pit stop, ran out of fuel on the post-finish lap.

Behind Andretti, other placing rookies were Gordon Johncock, Hastings, Mich., fifth; Mickey Rupp, Mansfield, Ohio, sixth; Bobby Johns, Miami, Fla., eighth; and Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., ninth.

Bauer, Mele Agree on White Sox

BALTIMORE (AP) — "I still say Chicago is the team to beat," says Manager Sam Mele of the Minnesota Twins.

"It's pretty hard to assess the race at this stage, but off hand I'd have to say Chicago is the team to beat," says Manager Hank Bauer of the Baltimore Orioles.

The managerial observations were made Monday after Minnesota and Baltimore, two likely contenders for the American League pennant, engaged in their first head-to-head battle.

The Twins passed the Memorial Day milestone in the league lead, one-half game ahead of the Chicago White Sox. The Orioles are fourth, one game behind Detroit and four behind Minnesota.

"Anyone who finishes ahead of Chicago should win the pennant," Mele said. "The White Sox not only have pitching depth, but they have a better offense than last year."

"They have four or five good clutch hitters, speed, and Eddie Fisher and Hoyt Wilhelm in the bullpen. Chicago is tough, but I haven't seen anyone we're afraid of."

Bauer also praised the Chicago pitching, but predicted a tight scramble.

"I said before it would be a seven-team race, and now Boston is hot, so you can't leave them out either. I don't see a runaway. The league's too well balanced for that."

"But don't count the Yanks short," said Bauer, who played with nine championship teams at New York. "They could be rough when they get all their injured players back."

WALKS PAVE WAY

Houston Rally Bops Braves

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros three times this year had faced the Milwaukee Braves and three times they acted like the skinny kid at the beach who gets sand kicked in his face.

Then in the eighth inning of Monday night's game they erupted like a blind homicidal maniac who's finally found the door to the armory.

er Bobby Bragan decided Tony should walk, too, before he passed the umpire.

Clay Carroll came on and threw two pitches to Ron Brand before Brand had him bracketed and slammed a double that was fair by inches inside the left field line.

They scored six runs — their biggest inning this year — and won the game 7-2.

Milwaukee led 2-1 when Tony Cloninger walked Joe Morgan. Jim Wynn and Walt Bond, getting only one out on a sacrifice by Lee Maye.

Bob Aspromonte hit a line drive to left where Rico Carty overran the ball, fell down, caught and lost the ball while sliding on his tummy.

Aspromonte was credited with a single.

Morgan and Wynn scored, Bond stopping at second.

Cloninger then gave up his eighth walk of the night to Rusty Staub, and manager

SECOND TITLE IN TWO YEARS?

Hawks Eye District Finale

By GARY EVANS
Daily News Sports Editor

For the second time in as many years Winona High School has stepped to the threshold of District Three baseball supremacy.

The Hawks get their second consecutive chance to bring home championship hardware Wednesday at St. Charles when they meet Kasson-Mantorville, bent on securing its second district championship of the "school year."

The Ko-Mets dethroned Stewartville as the district wrestling titlist with 112 points to 110 for runner-up Rochester.

This, in the estimation of Winhawk Coach Ed Spencer, a 17-year veteran, is enough warning that the so-called district "little schools" are not to be taken lightly.

"We don't know much about them," said Spencer, who pointed to the fact that Lake City ousted Big Nine titlist Rochester and in turn was beaten by Kasson-Mantorville.

To combat the Ko-Mets, Spencer has chosen John Ahrens, holder of a 6-0 record, as his starting pitcher. Todd Spencer will move to center field — something tried effectively against St. Charles last Thursday — with Dave Bauer at second base. Jim Doyle at third and R. D. Boschulte, the second baseman through the early part of the season, in Spencer's familiar shortstop spot.

Are the Hawks ready to take the title and burst into the Region One tournament to be played at Caledonia?

"I think so, but our hitting and fielding have been disappointing," assessed Spencer. "We have to start coming around in those two departments."

Ward Steers Team to 1st In CC Meet

W. W. (Bill) Ward, one of Winona's most consistent linksmen, drove his team to victory in the Memorial Day Horseshoe tournament played at Winona Country Club Sunday.

Ward parlayed a 74 into a winning 136 total after B. A. Miller shot 86, A. L. Twesme 98 and A. C. Tarras 121.

John Jeremiassen took medalist honors for the day by recording a 73. A total of 18 teams entered the tournament.

Five teams tied for third place with 133 points. They were: G. M. Grabow (93), F. L. Zeches (83), J. C. Pendleton (82), H. R. Hurd (82), L. R. Woodworth (95) and J. E. Krier (101); J. M. Andresen (83), W. C. Wernz (92), T. H. Underdahl (90) and Adolph Bremer (94).

Jim Gunn led Sunshine to a 9-6 victory over Bell's, rapping a triple and home run in three times at bat. Winning pitcher Jim Langowski, Cliff Kaniz and Bob Welch each had two hits. Kaniz doubled twice and Welch once.

Bob Kosidowski doubled twice and singled to lead Bell's. Bob Grausnick had three hits and Bob Troppie, Bob Hazelton and Dick Burmeister two each.

LANGOWSKI STRUCK out eight and walked three in winning. Loser Pete Jerowski fanned seven and walked five.

Jerry Dureske blazed a one-hitter, striking out 10 and walking five, as Louise's handcuffed Mankato Bar. Ed Jerowski took the loss. He whiffed nine and walked one.

Dick Jaszewski tripled for the winners and John Drazkowski doubled. Jerowski had a two-bagger for Mankato Bar.

ELLSWORTH, Wis. — Coach Greg Green steered his second Alma team into sectional tournament competition during the current school year here Monday.

The Rivermen baseball team leveled Ellsworth 18-1 to gain the Eau Claire tournament. Green's basketball team went to the sectional finals in basketball before bowing to Eau Claire Memorial.

Larry Fluekiger, backed by a 14-hit attack from his mates, went the route for the Alma win. He gave up four hits.

Mike Moham blazed a double and home run to lead the hitting parade for the winners. Curtis Youngbauer homered. Brian Kreibich whacked three hits including a double. Dennis Youngbauer was 2-for-3 with a double and Dick Ebersold went 2-for-3.

ALMA ELLSWORTH 333 500 2-18 14 2 200 100 4-11 4 4 4 Fluekiger and D. Youngbauer; Turnville, Murphy (3), Berg (5) and Trullman.

Perry Finds It's Big Fun To Aim Ball at Catcher

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gaylord Perry, best known for the pitch he made against a dugout wall, has found he's more effective aiming at the catcher.

The 26-year-old San Francisco right-hander strayed off target in the first inning Monday when he allowed two hits, but he settled down quickly and held St. Louis hitless over the final 8 2/3 innings as the Giants stretched their winning streak to five games with a 4-1 triumph.

It was the best performance of the season for Perry, who put on quite an act last year when he precipitated the rancorous case of the many-splintered bat.

In a game at Houston, he was tagged for a game-winning hit by Nellie Fox and immediately stormed off the mound, picked up Fox' bat and threw it against the concrete dugout.

The concrete dugout didn't give. The bat did. And Perry was billed by the Houston club for the cost of the bat, $2.98.

Apparently, he's learned, his less-than-ideal, instead of splintering bats, he's taken to stilling them. In his last three starts, he has allowed only five runs for a 1.80 earned-run average while bringing his record to 5-3 and moving in behind Juan Marichal as a stopper for the Giants.

The Giants' victory moved them to within three games of the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who split a doubleheader with Cincinnati, winning the opener 4-3 before Joey Jay ended the Reds' six-game losing streak with a three-hit, 6-1 nightcap triumph.

Pittsburgh, meanwhile, ran its winning streak to 11 games by defeating Philadelphia 5-2 and the New York Mets downed the Chicago Cubs 5-2 before the second game was halted by darkness after nine innings with the score tied 3-3. It will have to be replayed.

In the American League, Washington took two from Kansas City 5-2 and 5-1, Minnesota blanked Baltimore 6-0 before the Orioles won 5-4, the Chicago White Sox edged Cleveland 4-3 in 10 innings but the Indians won the nightcap 4-3, the New York Yankees downed Detroit 3-1 before losing 5-1 and Boston shut out Los Angeles 3-0 after the Angels won the opener 5-3.

Perry was in trouble right off the bat against St. Louis as Bill White led off the first with a single, stole second and moved to third on a wild pitch. White scored on a grounder by Curt Flood and then Ken Boyer singled. But that was all for the Cardinals as they lost their fifth straight.

Perry got the only runs he needed in the sixth inning when Willie McCovey hit his 11th homer, a two-run shot off Curt Simmons. Simmons now is 3-6.

Maury Wills was the key to the Dodgers' first game triumph. The little shortstop stole second and third in the fifth inning and scored the tying run on Ron Fairly's single. Then, in the ninth, he stroked his fourth single, driving in the winning run.

Jay, now 3-1, allowed only Jim Gilliam's third-inning double over the first eight innings before the Dodgers broke his shutout bid in the ninth. Frank Robinson supplied the big bat for the Reds with a double and his eighth homer.

The White Sox edged the Indians in the first game on Don Buford's leadoff homer against Floyd Weaver in the 10th inning.

In the second contest, Cleveland's Vic Davalillo, who had doubled, raced home in the ninth as relief pitcher Bruce Howard picked up Joe Azcue's sacrifice bunt and threw the ball into the left field. Chicago had tied it 3-3 in the top of the ninth on Al Weis' run-scoring single.

Joe Sparma stymied the Yankees on five hits, only two after the second inning in the second game. The Tigers jumped on Gil Blanco, making his first major league start, for four runs in the first inning, the last two scoring on Dick McAuliffe's single.

Whitey Ford allowed six hits through eight innings of the opener, bringing his record to 4-6. New York broke a 1-1 tie with two runs in the sixth, the first coming home on Bill Freehan's passed ball and the second on a single by Doc Edwards.

Whitewater Paired Against Top Team

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (A) — Whitewater State of Wisconsin is paired against the team with the best record in the field in the opening round of the ninth annual NAIA national baseball tournament next Monday.

Whitewater, 16-5, was matched against Carson Newman of Tennessee, 28-3, in the final game of the first day's card. The eight-team double-elimination tournament runs five days.

TWINS

blasted his eighth in the sixth inning.

Tony Oliva drove in two runs with a first inning single and a seventh inning double.

The victory ran Kaat's record to 4-5.

Johnny Klippstein was the victim of Bowen's game winning blast in the nightcap.

Minnesota took a 1-0 lead on an error and Oliva's double in the first inning of the second game, but it was short lived as the Orioles erupted for four runs in the second off Twins starter Dick Stigman.

Brooks Robinson singled and Bob Johnson, a product of Edina, smacked a home run. Stigman then walked Curt Blefary, and Dick Brown followed with another two-run homer.

Jim Perry and Mel Nelson shut the Orioles out over the next five innings.

The Twins rallied to tie the score at 4-4 in the fifth inning. Rich Rollins singled, catcher John Sevcik walked, and Valdespino, batting for Perry, also drew a walk to load the bases. Rollins scored on a ground ball the Orioles failed to convert in to a double play. Jerry Kindall then doubled to right, scoring Sevcik and Versalles, who was on by a fielders choice.

Dick Hall then replaced starter Jim Palmer, and worked two and a third innings of scoreless ball.

Miller finished up, allowing two hits but no runs in the final two innings, to run his scoreless innings record to 29 straight.

Bowen's game-winning clout was overdue. The power hitter was 0-for-6 for the two games, had only four hits in his previous 40 trips, and was 1-for-32 when he stepped to the plate in the ninth.

SEVERSON OUTSTANDING

Wolves Annex Maple Leaf Title

LANESBORO, Minn. (Special)

—Spring Valley, which eased past Peterson to win the District One track meet May 21, annexed the Maple Leaf Conference title with 72½ points Saturday.

Finishing second was Lanesboro with 49. Preston was third with 37, Harmony fourth with 25, Wykoff fifth with 22½ and Chalfield sixth with 19.

THE MEET, which saw four records broken, was highlighted by the performance of Harmony's Robert Severson in the shot, put and discus.

The Cardinal performer set a new shot put mark with a toss of 46-1½ to better the record of Wykoff's Steve Gladly set in 1963. The previous record was 44-3½.

Severson also set a discus standard when he floated the 132-9 mark attained by Poldevard of Wykoff in 1963.

Other records went into the books when Spring Valley's mile relay team of Harold Heintz, Steve Turbenson, Wayne Rendahl and Rick Steele clocked 3:44.65 and Steele sailed through the 440 in :54.6.

THE PREVIOUS mile relay record was 3:48.3 set by Spring Valley in '64. Preston's Gross had run the 440 in :55.9 in 1960.

Spring Valley's Clayton Larson was a double winner, coping the 100-yard dash in a time of :10.5 and sailing through the 220 in :23.1.

Team Totals: Spring Valley 72½; Lanesboro 49; Preston 37; Harmony 25; Wykoff 22½; Chalfield 19.

Prayer, Charity Urged On Coter Graduates

Words written by the Apostle Peter during the 1st Century, urging constancy in prayer and charity, are as vital to man's spiritual welfare today as they were 1900 years ago, members of the graduating class at Coter High School were told at baccalaureate services Sunday at St. Casimir's Church.

The 154 seniors, who will be graduated at commencement exercises Friday evening at the Coter physical education building, were addressed by the Rev. Donald Connelly, assistant pastor of Cathedral of the Sacred Heart, at a Mass celebrated by the Rev. James A. McCauley, Coter principal.

PRIOR to the baccalaureate sermon, students, parents and friends were welcomed by the Rev. Msgr. J. W. Haun, pastor of St. Casimir's parish.

The afternoon baccalaureate marked the beginning of a commencement week program that includes an awards assembly at 9:30 a.m. Friday and the commencement program at 8 p.m.

This year's commencement speaker will be the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William T. McGee, rector of Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary and chairman of the philosophy department at St. Mary's College.

Father Connelly drew his baccalaureate sermon from an Epistle of Peter in which the Apostle advised, "Be responsible and earnest in prayers. Above all maintain a constant charity towards each other because charity does away with a multitude of sins. Be hospitable to one another without grumbling."

WHILE THESE two practices — prayer and charity — are basic to spiritual life, Father Connelly observed, "they are simple to state but not so simple in practice. To be sincere and regular in prayer does not necessarily mean saying a lot of prayers. It means, rather, to have the spirit of prayer in all of our actions."

Prayer, he said, has been defined as a raising of the mind and heart to God but in spite of this definition frequently too much reliance is placed on words.

This is not to say that long and wordy prayers are bad, he continued, "but that the mind and heart, rather than the mouth, are the basic organs for prayer. We may read through many pages of printed prayers, yet one single moment in which we have thought of God exclusively, with love and gratitude, with repentance for our sins, is much more pleasing to God than a prayer of many words. If God is just below the surface of our thoughts — as any loved one is — moments such as these can and should punctuate our day quite frequently."

FATHER Connelly warned that prayers should not be self-centered and commented, "If our prayers are nine-tenths prayers of petition and only one-tenth prayers of adoration, love and thanksgiving, then our prayer time is really out of balance. In the perfect prayer, 'Our Father,' the first half praises our Heavenly Father, the last half is devoted to forgiveness and grace."

Turning to the quality of charity, Father Connelly noted that "Most of us are experts at looking after our own interests."

Rather, he said, men should live with the philosophy of "as you wish men to do to you — so also do you to them. Do unto others as you would be done by."

He told members of the graduating class that "breath-taking progress toward peace on earth will be made once millions of people like you begin to make 'do unto others' a main spring of action rather than a far-away ideal."

IN MANY PARTS of the world, the speaker said, men are being taught that they have no more worth than animals.

"This degrading concept of man can have disastrous effects. A person who has no respect for himself seldom has respect for anyone else."

"Our Lord doesn't just say 'love others' but 'love your neighbor as yourself,'" Father Connelly said, concluding, "The better you comprehend your own divine worth, the easier it is to see the image of God in others."

3 Guideposts Outlined for WSC Graduates

In his search for happiness in this life a person must travel a route whose guideposts are marked "charity," "wisdom," and "service," the chaplain of Winona State College's Newman Center told members of this year's graduating class at Winona State in a baccalaureate address Monday evening at Somsen Hall auditorium.

Speaking on "Another Person," the Rev. Martin G. Olsen addressed his remarks to students who will receive degrees at the annual spring commencement Friday.

"DR. NELS Minne, college president presided at the baccalaureate and gave a scripture reading prior to Father Olsen's address. Organist was Miss Agnes Bard of the college music department and the Winona State concert choir directed by Richmond McQuinn sang."

In his remarks to students Father Olsen said, "Our deepest desire in this life is to be happy. Happiness is not found in things, but in persons. Modern theologians and philosophers seem to be indicating three roads, among others, to travel in an effort for each of us to obtain our happiness."

The first of these, he said, can be labeled "Agape," a Greek word meaning fellowship or charity.

In terms of the personalist thinking today, Father Olsen pointed out, "we strive for an 'atenness' with another, two freedoms communicating in love and thus arriving at happiness. I am only a person in a unit — a community. This finally leads to our privileged encounter with God, another Person."

FATHER OLSEN turned his attention to the second road which, he said, can be labeled "wisdom."

He observed that "although there is a fallacy in equating morals with learning, still people in our community have a right to demand quality leadership from us. . . a leadership that will not shrink from standing up to give witness to other persons in the area of good versus evil."

Finally, Father Olsen concluded, "We must choose to travel the road of service. It would be a tragedy to fail to serve, to give, to help others. We do this only after we know ourselves so well we might even see in ourselves another person."

Prices Mixed, Trade Moderate After Holiday

NEW YORK (AP) — Some prices were trimmed early this afternoon in a mixed stock market. Trading was moderate.

A small gain on average was maintained through early morning but this faded after the first hour.

The three-day Memorial Day weekend brought nothing in the way of news disturbing to the market. In fact, the settlement of most of the labor disputes in the aluminum industry was reassuring.

Nevertheless, the market seemed to be working lower on an irregular pattern after small gains by a number of blue chips.

The tone was to the downside among motors, steels, mail order-retails and drugs, utilities, oils, rubbers and aerospace issues held on to a plurality of plus signs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .3 at 335.5 with industrials off 1.0, rails off .6 and utilities up .7.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.32 at 915.72.

Aluminum Ltd. was firm and Alcoa rose and Reynolds Metals rose nearly a point.

Prices advanced in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged in light trading. U.S. Treasury bonds edged lower.
